COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A joint subcommittee armed with voluminous testimony, court orders, maps, and crayons will attempt next week to draw new districts for the 1968 election of Ohio's 24 congressmen.

The six-man group was named Friday after an all-day parade of legislators, congressmen, and other officials before a joint meeting of the Senate Elections House Government Operations Committee.

It was the first hearing of the joint group since a federal court ordered the legislature to

Plane Losses Over Vietnam Reach 1,003

Hanoi, Haiphong Areas Avoided In New Raids

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command announced today the loss of four more U.S. jets in raids over North Vietnam, pushing American combat plane losses in the war past the 1,000 mark. Some of the raids came within 10 miles of Red China again in a heavy U.S. offensive.

The jets downed over the North Friday brought the total to 1,003, the command said. The figures are based on combat in both North and South Vietnam and do not include aircraft listed as "operational losses."

American warplanes, which struck Thursday at anti-aircraft batteries on a Chinese-Vietnamese railroad line only nine miles from Red China's frontier, flew just as close to the border Friday to hit a rail bridge.

They avoided the capital of Hanoi and the key port of Haiphong, however, after striking targets near these two cities for two straight days when the monsoon weather broke Wednesday.

The U.S. Command offered no explanation for the omission of targets in Hanoi and Haiphong.

The U.S. State Department, meanwhile, tentatively apologized to Moscow after the Soviet Union charged that an American delayed action bomb had disabled a Soviet freighter Thursday at Haiphong. Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said if the ship was damaged "it was inadvertent and is regretted," but on the basis of information so far available he could neither affirm nor rule out the charge.

Guerillas attacked U.S. 25th Infantry Division soldiers landing by helicopter 60 miles north of Saigon. The infantrymen reported killing 31 of the enemy and losing 10 killed and 10 wounded.

Red gunners fired some 250 rounds of mortar and rocket grenade fire today on the headquarters of a South Vietnamese infantry regiment 25 miles north of Saigon. The South Vietnamese, who do not announce exact losses, said casualties were light.

Vote Absenteeism High Despite Solon's Cries

WASHINGTON (AP)—While members of Congress point to the long 1967 session as evidence their jobs have become full-time, some do fail to show up when the voting chips are down.

An average of 63 representatives and 18 senators did not answer to their names on the many separate roll calls throughout the year, an analysis of the votes shows.

In the final six weeks of the marathon session, which ended Dec. 15, the non-voting average rose to 67 representatives and 23 senators.

Stand-By Rocky Giving Nixon Nod?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's refusal to fight for the Republican presidential nomination will cause the prize to fall into the hands of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a House GOP leader feels.

"I think it was the reluctance of Gov. Rockefeller to get out of the 1964 race early that nominated Sen. (Barry) Goldwater," Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said. "It is the reluctance of Gov. Rockefeller to get into the race that will nominate Dick Nixon."

Laird said Rockefeller is the strongest of the would-be or could-be nominees.

But the New York governor may have boxed himself off from the nomination, he said.

Laird, chairman of the House Republican conference, was head of the GOP's platform committee in 1964. He went to that national convention pledged to the Wisconsin favorite's candidacy of Rep. John W. Byrnes. He supported Goldwater on the day of his nomination after being released by Byrnes.

Little Girl Is Abducted For 2nd Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police had no clues today to the whereabouts of Isabelle MacMasters, 4, who was abducted from a kindergarten class Friday. It was the second time the daughter of heiress Mrs. Newton (Dolly Fritz) Cope has been abducted in little more than a year.

A man answering the description of the child's father, Donald MacMasters, grabbed her from glass, struggled with her teacher and escaped in an auto driven by another man, authorities said.

Train-Truck Crash Kills 7

HIXON, England (AP)—An express train bound for London smashed into a heavy truck on a grade crossing here today.

First reports said seven persons were killed and 20 injured. The truck, hauling a large transformer, was sliced in two but its driver and his mate were reported unhurt.

Police said the engine and eight cars of the Manchester-to-London express derailed in this Midlands town north of Stafford. Some passengers were reported trapped.

A British Railways spokesman said there were about 500 passengers on the train.

Hanoi Feeler Brings Mixed World Views

Fresh Outbreak of Cold Air To Sweep Across Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fresh outbreak of arctic cold numbed the nation's mid-section today and coated highways with a treacherous icing as it overswept a belt of rain stretching from Kansas to Tennessee.

Temperatures plummeted once more toward the 40-below-zero level in North Dakota and Minnesota. International Falls, Minn., registered a bone-chilling 35 and Minneapolis-St. Paul 17 below before dawn.

An earlier cold snap lingered over the Great Lakes and centered its punch on northern New York and New England. The mercury tumbled to 19 below at Massena, N.Y., on the Canadian border.

Parts of the Midwest warmed up to the 20s and 30s Friday for the first time in a week, but the Weather Bureau indicated the same regions would chill down to zero or below by Sunday morning.

A similar respite from winter miseries already was wiped out for residents of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee, hit earlier this week by more than three days of sleet and freezing rain.

Hazardous driving warnings were in effect for these states as well as Kansas and Missouri. Forecasters said the glaze warnings probably would be extended into southern Illinois and Kentucky, the latter hit hardest by the New Year's ice storm that lasted into Thursday.

Light sleet iced over portions of Kansas as the wind-blown cold wave engulfed the midcontinent. Zero temperatures were expected for the same area tonight. Heavy ice formed on trees, shrubs and power lines in the Little Rock-Pine Bluff area of Arkansas.

Heavy rain soaked a wide area south of the storm of ice, stretching from Texas through Georgia. Nearly 1 1/2 inches of rain drenched Eldorado, Ark., and more than an inch fell at Shreveport, La.

A frequent companion of severe cold—house fires—claimed 11 lives Friday. Six others died in a fire that may have been started by a cigarette, at Simi, Calif., near Los Angeles. Of the

Set Surveyor Moon Probe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Surveyor 7, America's last unmanned lunar probe, is scheduled for launching early Sunday toward a soft landing on one of the roughest spots of the moon—the highlands north of the crater Tycho.

Launching of the Atlas-Centaur booster rocket was set for a favorable period between 12:55 a.m. and 3:12 a.m. EST.

Surveyor 7 is the 29th U.S. moon shot in slightly more than nine years. The first 12 failed, but 13 of the last 16 were successful. No more unmanned moon rockets are planned, and the next American moon explorer should be man himself, perhaps in 1969.

Earlier Surveyors confirmed that the four prime astronaut landing sites are safe for manned expeditions. All are in relatively smooth plains along the lunar equator.

With the four sites verified, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration decided to use Surveyor 7 for a purely scientific mission. The Tycho highlands were selected as a be considerably different geologically from the planned astronaut landing areas.

They also are rugged, making the mission a risky one. Computer analysis gives the probe a 43 per cent chance of success, compared with 47 per cent for Surveyors 5 and 6, which succeeded.

Novotny Out As Czech Party Chief

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—President Antonin Novotny has lost his job as Communist party chief after 15 years and the background of the new leader, Alexander Dubcek, could mean a quickening of liberal changes, Western diplomatic observers said today.

Dubcek, 46, who won the power struggle in a four-day secret party caucus, is from Slovakia, for years a source of anti-Stalinist ferment in Czechoslovakia. First reports said his backers in the struggle were liberal associates disaffected with the progress of economic and party reforms.

The diplomatic observers expressed doubt, however, that Dubcek would lead Czechoslovakia away from support of the Soviet Union and into the renegade status of Yugoslavia or Romania.

Dubcek, Soviet-educated and a party member since his youth, received quick congratulations from Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev, who wished him "success in his work to the good of the Czechoslovak people."

Brezhnev was known to have closely watched the Czech situation and made a hurried trip to Prague shortly before Christmas, when he reportedly made clear he would not intervene to save Novotny, stigmatized by his rise to office during the repression of the Stalin era.

Bowling Green Pilot in Raid

SAIGON (AP)—Navy Cmdr. Robert J. Dapogny, 37, of Bowling Green, Ohio, sweeping in over North Vietnam Friday, reported direct hits on the Sai Thon railroad bridge 95 miles south of Hanoi.

"We had no trouble getting to the target," Dapogny said. "We rolled in and made a run on the bridge. It looked as if we both strung our bombs right down the length of the bridge."

Smoke and dust prevented an assessment of damage to the bridge but the A4 Skyhawk pilot said he believed the 500-pound bombs knocked a span down.

Bombing Halt Without Red Cutoff Feared

Military Leaders Fear New Move Will Prove Hoax

SAIGON (AP)—Reacting to statements from Hanoi last week seen by some observers as a softer approach to peace talks, South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu said today "everyone is waiting for a much clearer position from Hanoi." But he added that the bombing of North Vietnam could not be stopped without reciprocal action from Hanoi.

Thieu's comments were basically in line with the U.S. position on the recent Hanoi statements, as voiced by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a Washington news conference Thursday. Rusk, too, said the allies need to find out what Hanoi means; however, the secretary declined to say whether a bombing halt was possible without Communist reciprocity.

Legislation Against Riots Is Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislation aimed at curbing riots in Ohio's big cities will be ready for consideration of the Ohio General Assembly when it convenes a week from next Monday.

Proposals include:

- Making it illegal to trespass on damaged property in an effort to curb rioting.
- Giving mayors and sheriffs emergency powers to close business places and set curfews, among other things.
- Giving police more immunity from property damage liability in performance of duty.
- Making disorderly conduct a violation of state law for the first time. The offense now is covered only in local ordinances.
- Increasing jurisdiction of the Highway Patrol which now is limited to state highways and state-owned property.
- Providing statutory authority for mutual aid agreements between communities for police and fire protection.
- Requiring a minimum of 150 hours' training for enrollees in the state's police officer training program.
- Modernizing of certain "antiquated" sections of Ohio's Riot Act.

So far, North Vietnamese statements hinting at possible readiness to open peace talks have offered no reciprocity for a halt in U.S. bombing.

This lack of any offer of reciprocal action is one factor that makes some U.S. officials dubious about the sincerity of the North Vietnamese stance.

American military authorities recall public statements by North Vietnamese leaders indicating that, according to their doctrine, fighting should continue even while negotiations are in progress.

This happened in the Korean War, the last time the United States fought to turn back a Communist aggression.

Truce negotiations in that war began in July 1951 and the armistice was signed two years later. Meanwhile, the fighting kept on and another 10,000 or so Americans were killed amid the talking.

LBJ Ready For Eshkol

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson shifted from budget work today to Middle East problems, preparing for an informal, private and low-key ranch visit Sunday and Monday with Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol.

Peace in the troubled Middle East was reported to be the prime topic on the agenda for the two leaders.

Eshkol will be at the ranch only about 22 hours, according to the schedule. But there will be no time spent on ceremonies.

The Israeli Embassy has sent word to leaders of the Jewish community in San Antonio that there will be little time for him to meet Eshkol when he and his wife arrive at Randolph Air Force Base here Sunday at 4:20 p.m. EST. It was explained officials do not want to slow the prime minister's journey to the LBJ Ranch, 75 miles north of here.

Humphrey Blasts Foreign Aid Cuts

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today the Johnson administration refuses to retreat before the "new isolationism" which he said caused the recent cuts in U.S. foreign aid. The vice president said the administration will take its case for more foreign aid directly to the American people.

Humphrey's speech was prepared for a joint meeting of the Organization of African Unity and the U.N. Economic Commission for Africa.

Name Committee To Redraw Map Of Ohio Districts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A joint subcommittee armed with voluminous testimony, court orders, maps, and crayons will attempt next week to draw new districts for the 1968 election of Ohio's 24 congressmen.

The six-man group was named Friday after an all-day parade of legislators, congressmen, and other officials before a joint meeting of the Senate Elections-House Government Operations Committee.

It was the first hearing of the joint group since a federal court ordered the legislature to redistrict the state and submit a plan by Jan. 26. The legislature convenes on Jan. 15. Candidates' filing deadline is Feb. 4 although the legislature could postpone it by passing a law.

Senate committee chairman Robin T. Turner, R-14 Marion, named himself to the subcommittee as did House Chairman Charles Fry, R-9 Clark. Other members are Sens. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, William B. Nye, D-28 Summit, Reps. Walter L. White, R-6 Allen and John C. McDonald, D-19 Licking.

The lawmakers had only one proposed plan before them at Friday's hearing — one submitted by Gov. James A. Rhodes. But several legislators had plans affecting their own districts, urging revision of the Rhodes plan which calls for variation in population among districts of only about one-half of one per cent.

Thursday's federal court order resulted from a U. S. Supreme Court ruling which held Ohio's present districts vary too much—as much as 33 per cent from the smallest to the largest. The court must approve any plan passed by the legislature, may change it, or can throw it out and do the job itself.

A key witness before the committee was Harry J. Lehman of Cleveland, counsel for the plaintiffs in the federal court case against Rhodes and other state officials. He said, in his opinion, the court might allow districts to vary 4-5 per cent.

But he predicted the court would object "if every district had a deviation of that magnitude. I would say the vast majority should have as little as possible, such as 1-2-3 per cent."

American warplanes, which struck Thursday at anti-aircraft batteries on a Chinese-Vietnamese railroad line only nine miles from Red China's frontier, flew just as close to the border Friday to hit a rail bridge.

Vote Absenteeism High Despite Solon's Cries

WASHINGTON (AP)—While members of Congress point to the long 1967 session as evidence their jobs have become full-time, some do fail to show up when the voting chips are down.

An average of 63 representatives and 18 senators did not answer to their names on the many separate roll calls throughout the year, an analysis of the votes shows.

In the final six weeks of the marathon session, which ended Dec. 15, the non-voting average rose to 67 representatives and 23 senators.

Congressional absenteeism often results from situations familiar to all workers—illness or death in the family, graduations and other personal considerations.

In some cases, members at committee meetings do not respond to roll calls because they consider the immediate committee business more important and are aware their votes will not affect the outcome on the floor.

However, hearings or deliberations are usually suspended when major issues are up for decision.

Members of Congress also are involved in such out-of-Washington activity as political fence-mending, campaigning, speech-making in their home or other states and traveling, with Vietnam a favorite destination.

A few simply wearied of the session and left before it ended.

But charges of misconduct against a member in each house last session drew high sustained attendance.

Between 424 and 431 of the 434 House members were on hand for the key votes involved in the exclusion of New York Democrat Adam Clayton Powell. And between 94 and 97 senators were recorded on the series of votes in the censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Procedural and direct political matters also produced good turnout.

A vote on a move to ease the Senate filibuster rules drew 99 members to the floor for a vote. A roll call during discussion of a controversial bill to provide public financing for political campaigns drew 98.

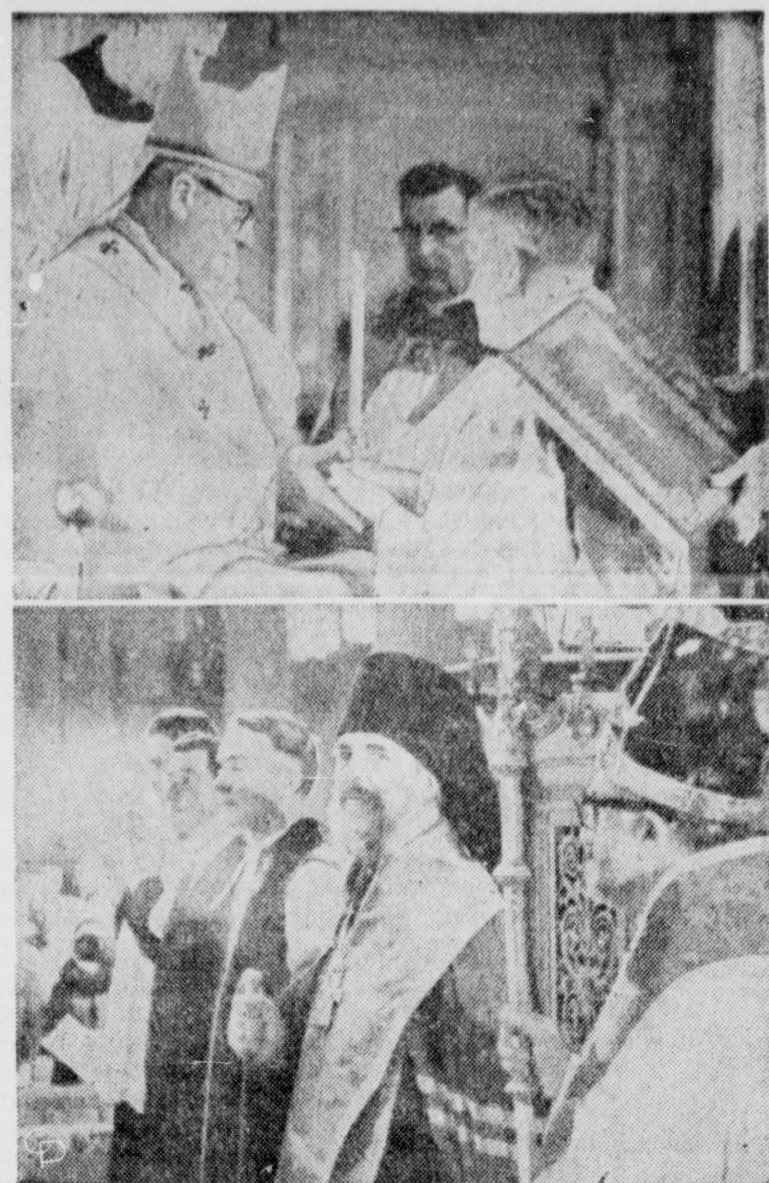

The peak vote in the House came on the first day, when all participated in the election of a speaker.

Other issues, including much of the major legislation, drew fewer members to the floor for roll calls in both Houses.

There were 28 Senate absences on a bill to revise and extend the draft law and 38 on the question of whether a committee should look into social problems as part of an investigation of rioting last summer.

The House turned out only 356 members on a pioneer bill to expand educational television and radio.

Stand-By Rocky Giving Nixon Nod?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's refusal to have "a very good chance" to fight for the Republican presidential nomination will cause the prize to fall into the hands of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a House GOP leader feels.

"I think it was the reluctance of Gov. Rockefeller to get out of the 1964 race early that nominated Sen. (Barry) Goldwater," Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said. "It is the reluctance of Gov. Rockefeller to get into the race that will nominate Dick Nixon."

Laird said Rockefeller is the strongest of the would-be or could-be nominees.

But the New York governor may have boxed himself off from the nomination, he said.

Laird, chairman of the House Republican conference, was head of the GOP's platform committee in 1964. He went to that national convention pledged to the Wisconsin favorite-son candidacy of Rep. John W. Byrnes. He supported Goldwater on the day of his nomination after being released by Byrnes.

Laird's views came in a recorded (CBS) radio program and later questioning during which it was indicated he always felt Rockefeller was well qualified and he could support him if nominated. He maintained he always would support the party's nominee.

Nixon appears at the moment to have "a very good chance" to win all the major presidential preference primaries in New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oregon, Laird said.

Rockefeller won't get into any of these primaries and unless Nixon loses one "I don't believe he can be stopped in Miami," he said.

Laird said he felt Rockefeller gave a commitment early to support Gov. George Romney of Michigan and would stand behind this pledge unless released.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—President Antonin Novotny has lost his job as Communist party chief after 15 years and the background of the new leader, Alexander Dubcek, could mean a quickening of liberal changes, Western diplomatic observers said today.

Dubcek, 46, who won the power struggle in a four-day secret party caucus, is from Slovakia, for years a source of anti-Stalinist ferment in Czechoslovakia.

First reports said his backers in the struggle were liberal associates disaffected with the progress of economic and party reforms.

The diplomatic observers expressed doubt, however, that Dubcek would lead Czechoslovakia away from support of the Soviet Union and into the renege status of Yugoslavia or Romania.

Dubcek, Soviet-educated and a party member since his youth, received quick congratulations from Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev, who wished him "success in his work to the good of the Czechoslovak people."

Brezhnev was known to have closely watched the Czech situation and made a hurried trip to Prague shortly before Christmas, when he reportedly made clear he would not intervene to save Novotny, stigmatized by his rise to office during the repression of the Stalin era.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislation aimed at curbing riots in Ohio's big cities will be ready for consideration of the Ohio General Assembly when it convenes a week from next Monday.

Proposals include:

— Making it illegal to trespass on damaged property in an effort to curb rioting.

— Giving mayors and sheriffs emergency powers to close business places and set curfews, among other things.

— Giving police more immunity from property damage liability in performance of duty.

Bombing Halt Without Red Cutoff Feared

Military Leaders Fear New Move Will Prove Hoax

SAIGON (AP)—Reacting to statements from Hanoi last week seen by some observers as a softer approach to peace talks, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu said today "everyone is waiting for a much clearer position from Hanoi." But he added that the bombing of North Vietnam could not be stopped without reciprocal action from Hanoi.

Thieu's comments were basically in line with the U.S. position on the recent Hanoi statements, as voiced by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a Washington news conference Thursday. Rusk, too, said the allies need to find out what Hanoi means; however, the secretary declined to say whether a bombing halt was possible without Communist reciprocity.

Complicating the picture is the question of recognition. North Vietnam considers the Thieu government a puppet regime set up by the United States and considers the Viet Cong the sole legal authority in South Vietnam. The Saigon government refuses to accord any legal status to the Viet Cong, but has said it is willing to talk with the North.

Prince Sihanouk indicated in responses to questions sent to him by the New York Times that he could not consider "cooperation" with the United States in investigating or rooting out Communist sanctuary camps in Cambodia. Said Sihanouk: "The only 'control' that Home food freezers are not novelties—more than one-fourth of U.S. housekeeping households have them. While many owners have their freezers efficiently, some could benefit from improving their management practices.

How do you get the most efficient use of a freezer?

Improvement could come from making sure the freezer is cold enough to maintain frozen food quality; keeping accurate inventory records; and dating food packages.

Economists point out that the expense of running a sparsely filled freezer can be higher per pound of frozen food when one considers that it costs almost as much to operate an empty freezer as a full one.

Keep similar foods together in the freezer so you can tell when the stock is low, and keep a running record of food on hand.

If packages are dated, it allows you to use the food that has been in the freezer the longest. There is some limit on keeping quality depending upon the product.

Cotton stretch fabrics that are less expensive and stronger than the ones now on the market may result from experiments being conducted by utilization scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A new process, called compacting, consists of gently shoving the cotton fibers closer together by running the cotton wet through a series of rubber-covered curved rollers that gently push the fabric in on itself from the edges without wrinkling. The process increases abrasion resistance and may be a means to make stretch cottons and durable-press cottons wear longer.

Another study underway may help improve durable-press cottons. Scientists have found that when cotton is treated with certain water-resisting chemicals before treatment with durable-press chemicals, the fabric undergoes less loss in breaking strength, tearing strength, and abrasion resistance than do conventional durable-press fabrics.

Much additional research is needed, however, before these processes are ready for commercial use.

Do shoppers value the information printed on tags, other than just price and size? A survey of independent, department, and discount stores in seven cities indicated that hangtags are indeed super "silent salesmen".

Advise Delay In Pruning of Fruit Trees

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Warm, sunny days in December may have tempted many of you to "prune while the weather is right".

The fact is, pruning of apple, peach and other fruit trees should not be done during temporary warm periods, especially if no real cold weather has preceded the warm period. More of the warm days like we had in December can occur in early January, so you may be wise in delaying pruning until later, says Eldon S. Banta, Extension Horticulturist, The Ohio State University.

There is a definite reduction in cold hardness of terminal growth of most fruit trees directly after pruning. Ohio research shows that with apple trees the greatest loss of cold resistance occurs within one day after pruning. A week after pruning, the trees regain most of their cold resistance, but never quite equal that of unpruned trees, he says.

Warm periods in December and early January are often followed by rather sudden drops in temperature, sometimes to zero or below. A rapid drop in temperature of four degrees per hour or more to or near zero is, in itself, conducive to injury of terminal growth and buds. If accompanied by the effects of early pruning, the injury that may occur from sudden temperature drops can be somewhat increased.

FRUIT growers as well as research workers can cite several instances where trees pruned before a cold period experienced more severe low temperature injury than unpruned trees. In fact, in 1917, 1924 and again in 1935-36 there were instances when pruned trees were entirely killed while unpruned trees adjacent to them escaped injury or were only slightly damaged.

To be on the safe side, it is best to delay pruning fruit trees until about mid-February, at least under Ohio conditions. A grower with a large acreage to prune, however, may feel that pruning should begin in early winter. In doing so, he must take into consideration the risk of possible low temperature damage to his pruned trees.

Farm-Aid Programs Won't See Action before 1969

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of many Johnson administration farm aid programs doubtless will be debated during the 1968 presidential election year, but most farm leaders doubt Congress will act on them before 1969.

Current programs affecting wheat, cotton, corn and other major feed grains, wool, and some provisions of dairy and rice plans are scheduled to expire at the end of 1969 unless extended or revised by Congress.

Undoubtedly, President Johnson and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman would like to see Congress enact legislation this year continuing these programs.

But because these programs are highly controversial in Congress as well as among farmers and their leaders, it is considered likely that the lawmakers will want to avoid blowing them into campaign issues.

However, the administration may feel that it would have a better chance getting them through the present Congress than through the new Congress to be elected in 1968. That's because of a possibility the Republicans may gain seats at the expense of Democrats at the elections.

Freeman is expected to make an all-out campaign for Johnson's reelection and for the election of a Democratic controlled Congress on the basis of the present temporary programs.

Cattlemen Attend State Meeting

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,

Pickaway County cattle feeders attended the Ohio Cattle Feeders annual meeting at the Southern Hotel, on Jan. 4. Several outstanding speakers were the feature of the day.

The morning program included a presentation by Dr. Dean Lindsey, a field research representative of Eli Lilly Co. Dr. Lindsey's presentation dealt with "The Respiratory Diseases Complex of Feedlot Cattle". Dr. Lindsey pointed out "that the beef industry has a loss of $782,623,000 annually from respiratory diseases". This amounts to $9.00 per head loss overall. He also pointed out that it is really not surprising that such losses exist because feeder calves on the range are in a perfect environment, disease free and maybe 20 miles from the next nearest heard or source of infection.

Then suddenly they are moved to a feeder calf concentration point where infection may be present, feed not of good quality, water completely different and unpalatable. This movement from range to feedlot may take seven days with the above situation still existing. Finally, they reach their destination, more new surroundings, different feed again and different water, plus shots or other medication. You now have a scared, sick animal. This is the respiratory complex, bacteria, parasites, protozoa, poor nutrition, stress and viruses.

Phillip Gibbs, of the Gibbs Packing Co. of Cleveland, visited with the group on "The Challenge of Things To Come in the Cattle and Beef Industry". Gibbs pointed out that in packing industry 50 years ago it took an hour to pull a hide from an animal. It now is done in 20 seconds. The minimum wage in the slaughter house is $3.04 per hour plus another 80 cents in fringe benefits. There are new developments in the packing business. They now vacuum pack beef in plastic wrappers that can be refrigerated for five weeks without damage.

Some other changes in the packing industry pointed out by Mr. Gibbs were: that the average hide weighs about 50 pounds and 20 years ago was worth 25 cents a pound. Today you are lucky to get 10 cents a pound. The average tallow per carcass weighs 40 pounds and 20 years ago it was worth 20 cents per pound. Today you cannot get five cents for it. If these by-products are comparable in price today with 20 years ago the industry could pay $1 per cut more to the farmer.

Other speakers on the program were Paschal Drake, of the Packers and Stockyard Division of USDA, and Orion Samuelson, Farm Director of WGN, Chicago.

Wool Contest Winner

Debbie Young Represents Ohio

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,

Two Ohio girls were recently chosen winners in the 1967 Make It Yourself With Wool Contest. The wool outfits they made and modeled were judged best among those of 1200 other contestants in ten Ohio districts.

Debbie Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, Route 1, Circleville, is the junior division winner.

Debbie is a student at Logan Elm and a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers and the Pickaway Swine and Dairy 4-H Clubs. Nancy Hosler, of Lakewood is the senior division winner. They will represent Ohio in the national finals of the 1967 Make It Yourself With Wool competition at Dallas, Tex., Jan. 27-31, reports Ralph Grimshaw, Animal Science Extension Specialist, The Ohio State University. Each will receive an all expenses paid jet flight to Dallas, courtesy of the Ohio Wool Growers Association, Columbus.

Miss Hosler's handiwork was a two-piece wool suit, and Miss Young displayed a youthful and gay three-piece kilt outfit. A panel of judges distinguished in the art of home sewing, style and design had the job of selecting two winners from the 20 young women who participated in the state finals, held in conjunction with the recent Ohio Sheep Improvement Association annual meeting. The judges were Mrs. Orena Haynes and Miss Edna Akers, Extension Clothing Specialists, The Ohio State University; Mrs. Jeff Kierns, Home Economics Department, Bloomville High School, Bloomville; and Mrs. Susan Libbe, State Supervisor and Home Economist for Carmel-Sibonne Products.

The Make It Yourself With Wool competition is sponsored by the American Wool Council, the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association, and the Ohio Wool Growers Cooperative Association.

French To Sell Wheat to Reds

PARIS (AP) — French wheat shippers are negotiating to sell Red China 400,000 to 600,000 metric tons of soft wheat, business sources reported Friday.

The sale would amount to at least 28 per cent of France's 1.4-million-ton exportable surplus this year. The sources said that because of the shipping distance involved France would be paid an unusually high Common Market subsidy of $11 a ton in addition to the sales price.

The subsidy would come from the European Common Market's common agricultural fund, which subsidizes farm exports by member nations.

They now vacuum pack beef in plastic wrappers that can be refrigerated for five weeks without damage.

Some other changes in the packing industry pointed out by Mr. Gibbs were: that the average hide weighs about 50 pounds and 20 years ago was worth 25 cents a pound. Today you are lucky to get 10 cents a pound. The average tallow per carcass weighs 40 pounds and 20 years ago it was worth 20 cents per pound. Today you cannot get five cents for it. If these by-products are comparable in price today with 20 years ago the industry could pay $1 per cut more to the farmer.

Other speakers on the program were Paschal Drake, of the Packers and Stockyard Division of USDA, and Orion Samuelson, Farm Director of WGN, Chicago.

Heart Throat Is Developed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Scientists at a New Jersey research firm believe they have discovered a throat that could be used to patch a damaged heart.

The throat was described here by Dr. Leslie K. Gulton, president of Gulton Industries, Inc., of Metuchen, N.J., a pioneer company in the development of polycrystalline piezoelectric material.

Wool Contest Winner

Debbie Young Represents Ohio

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,

Two Ohio girls were recently chosen winners in the 1967 Make It Yourself With Wool Contest. The wool outfits they made and modeled were judged best among those of 1200 other contestants in ten Ohio districts. Debbie Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, Route 1, Circleville, is the junior division winner.

Debbie is a student at Logan Elm and a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers and the Pickaway Swine and Dairy 4-H Clubs. Nancy Hosler, of Lakewood is the senior division winner. They will represent Ohio in the national finals of the 1967 Make It Yourself With Wool competition at Dallas, Tex., Jan. 27-31, reports Ralph Grimshaw, Animal Science Extension Specialist, the Ohio State University. Each will receive an all expenses paid jet flight to Dallas, courtesy of the Ohio Wool Growers Association, Columbus.

Miss Hosler's handiwork was a two-piece wool suit, and Miss Young displayed a youthful and girly three-piece knit outfit. A panel of judges distinguished in the art of home sewing, style and design had the job of selecting two winners from the 20 young women who participated in the state finals, held in conjunction with the recent Ohio Sheep Improvement Association annual meeting. The judges were Mrs. Orena Haynes and Miss Edna Akers, Extension Clothing Specialists, The Ohio State University; Mrs. Jeff Kierns, Home Economics Department, Bloomville High School, Bloomville; and Mrs. Susan Libbe, State Supervisor and Home Economist for Carmel-Sibonne Products.

The Make It Yourself With Wool competition is sponsored by the American Wool Council, the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association, and the Ohio Wool Growers Cooperative Association.

French To Sell Wheat to Reds

PARIS (AP) — French wheat shippers are negotiating to sell Red China 400,000 to 600,000 metric tons of soft wheat, business sources reported Friday.

The sale would amount to at least 28 per cent of France's 1.4-million-ton exportable surplus this year. The sources said that because of the shipping distance involved France would be paid an unusually high Common Market subsidy of $11 a ton in addition to the sales price.

The subsidy would come from the European Common Market's common agricultural fund, which subsidizes farm exports by member nations.

Small U.S. Garrison Keeps Busy on Marcus Island

By BOB POOS
Associated Press Writer

MARCUS ISLAND (AP) — A sign at the tiny airstrip on this diminutive stand in the central Pacific gives the latitude and longitude.

"That's so people who come here will know where they've been," says Seaman Appren. Bill John of San Francisco, one of the 32-man Coast Guard garrison.

"We always send the location to our folks back home so they find it on a map. Nobody's ever heard of it before."

Marcus is about a mile long and three-fourths of a mile wide at its widest. The Coast Guardsmen here beam loran navigational aid signals to U.S. airplanes and ships, including nuclear submarines, in the area. They also man a small weather station.

This was one of numerous Japanese island fortresses that never became a World War II battleground like nearby Iwo Jima or Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian. American forces moved in quietly after the Japanese surrender in 1945.

Sometime this year it, along with its sister islands of the Bonin chain, is due to be returned to Japanese sovereignty.

Whether the U.S. base will remain is a moot point at present, probably to be negotiated in the final Japanese-American agreement.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard detachment and four civilians—all American citizens of Hawaiian descent—fight boredom and loneliness when off duty.

"We're too busy to be bored on duty," says CWO Jean Jeter, former resident of San Antonio, Tex., now executive officer on Marcus.

"There's always plenty to do on the job. Just keeping all the equipment in working order can be a fulltime proposition."

The island's resupply is almost entirely by air. Planes are scheduled to come in once a week. Sometimes they do.

Off-duty pastimes include exploring the massive Japanese fortifications, shooting at the numerous sharks that prowl the surrounding waters, fishing, skindiving and swimming in an excellent pool.

John, a skindiving enthusiast, has some underwater color photos of three huge Mako sharks, closeups. "If these are a little blurry," he says, "It's because my hands were shaking at the time."

Virtually all the men take correspondence courses—Jeter is wrapped up in five.

"The time passes," he says, "and pretty soon your year is up."

Military duty tours on Marcus and other remote outposts are for one year, as in Vietnam, rather than the normal 18 months.

The monotony is also broken by one-week rest and recreation trips to Tokyo every three months.

Island commander Lt. (jg) Ralph Anderson permits his men to grow fierce-looking beards if they desire. Most quickly shear them off if a trip to civilization is imminent.

Marcus has seasons and is winter is almost perfect, warm with a fine breeze. Summer is fiercely hot with the sun reflecting off the dazzling coral which makes up the island. The location, incidentally, if you want to find Marcus, is 26 degrees 32 minutes north, 142 degrees 10 minutes east.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Cloudy skies and warmer temperatures prevailed over the state during the night. Temperatures rose slowly through the night and at morning only a few stations in the northeast continued to show readings lower than 20. At 5 a.m. Dayton and Cincinnati were the warmest with 25 degrees while Youngstown was the coldest at 18.

But winter was to return to the state today. A cold front entering from the northwest was to sweep over the state during the day, sending temperatures downward.

Travelers warnings were issued for the southern third of the state. General snowfall was expected until the cold front was past but significant accumulations were expected only in the southern sections, where 2 to 4 inches were likely. Occasional periods of freezing drizzle or freezing rain also were possible.

Snow flurries will develop in the cold air but generally will be confined to the usual snow belt near Lake Erie. These will taper off Sunday.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Snow southern third of the state possibly accumulating 2 to 4 inches by sunset and occasionally mixed with freezing rain and sleet. Cloudy windy and much colder tonight with occasional light snow extreme south through the evening and snow flurries northeast. Low zero to 5 below northwest and zero to 10 above elsewhere. Partly cloudy southwest and cloudy with snow flurries northeast Sunday. Much colder Sunday with diminishing winds.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and much colder tonight and Sunday with snow flurries tonight tapering off on Sunday. Low tonight 5 below to 5 above.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Travelers warning for snow and freeze rain. Snow early tonight accumulating 2 to 4 inches. Snow flurries and turning much colder late tonight. Low 5 to 10 above. Sunday clearing and much colder.

CENTRAL OHIO — Snow this evening and early tonight accumulating one or two inches north to two to four inches south. Snow flurries and turning much colder late tonight. Low from near zero to 5 above. Sunday clearing and much colder.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Travelers warning for snow and freezing rain. Low zero to 10 above. Partly cloudy and very cold Sunday.

tion. That is the field of general practice.

A survey by the American Medical Association in 1967 shows that of 13,456 physicians in Ohio, only 3,437 are in general practice.

The study also showed that of 548 hospital-based interns in Ohio only one was studying for family practice.

A Committee on Education for Family Practice, set up by the AMA to study the shortage of family doctors on a national basis, reported that "in 1931 there were 112,000 physicians who classified themselves as general practitioners. . . . In 1960, the number had declined to 75,000 and in 1965 to 66,000."

The decline in family practitioners is due to an increasing trend among medical students to specialize in some particular field of medicine such as cardiology, gynecology or internal medicine, according to Charles W. Edgar, public relations director of the Ohio State Medical Association (OSMA).

One of the reasons for the trend toward specialization, Edgar said, is that the stress in medical schools is on specialization.

"There are hospitals in this country that will not permit a family physician on their staff," he added.

The greatest danger created by this trend, Edgar said, is the impersonal attitude that could evolve if the family physician becomes extinct.

A patient may no longer be viewed as a whole human being with an ailment of one part of the body affecting other parts but rather as a group of organs with each specialist interested only in the area of the body encompassed by his specialty.

Another danger created by the lack of family doctors, Edgar said, is that many rural communities do not have a physician within fifty miles.

To increase the number of family physicians on Ohio, the OSMA is sponsoring a preceptorship program whereby medical students entering their fourth year of training may spend two weeks working under a practicing family physician. The association hopes the program will install an interest in family practice in students who would otherwise not be exposed to it.

Under another program the OSMA gives $2,000 medical scholarships to students from non-metropolitan areas in hopes of increasing the number of rural family physicians. But, according to Edgar, "Our experience in this has been pretty sad."

The AMA Family Practice Committee reported, "There is need for a new kind of specialist in family medicine, educated to provide comprehensive personal health care, because of the complexity of modern medicine and the health care system."

The committee also calls for more concentrated family practice training in today's medical schools.

The committee defines the "physician of the future," as "one who, serves as the physician of first contact with the patient and provides a means of entry into the health care system."

He would also evaluate the patient's total health needs, provide personal medical care, and refer the patient, when necessary, to appropriate sources of care while preserving the continuity of his care.

Dear Abby: Simple Cable Can Save the Day

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are in a terrible mess. My 15-year-old daughter, Tessie, has been corresponding with an English pen pal (a boy) for about a year and a half. He is 18. Tessie got his name from some "Hands Across The Sea" program at school.

Anyway, it seems that Tessie told him that we were very well to do. (We certainly are not!) She made life here sound so attractive that this boy is coming here! He is going to work his way over on a freighter and says he will stay with us until he gets "situated." This could be a matter of months, Abby.

We live in a three-bedroom house. My husband and I and the baby in one room, the four boys in another room, and Tessie and her three sisters in the third room. And my mother sleeps on a cot in the living room. How can we head off this English boy? I am a nervous wreck and am about ready to slaughter Tessie.

WRECK DEAR WRECK: A four-word cable to England might be a cheap investment. "DELAY TRIP LETTER FOLLOWS." In your letter, explain that you are unable to put him up, so unless he can make other arrangements for housing "until he gets situated," He had better reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: My son (I'll call him James) is 17. A week ago he came down with a body rash so I sent him to a skin specialist. The doctor examined the boy, gave him a lamp treatment, and told him to come back on Monday for another treatment. James now says that he will not go back. My husband finally got the boy to tell him why.

Well, it seems that James had to undress completely and lie on his back under some sort of lamp for the treatment. The doctor turned the lamp on, then left the room and sent in a nurse who was not much older than James. He said this girl stood beside the table the whole 15 minutes while he was having the lamp treatment and he had never been so embarrassed in all his life. There was a timer on the lamp and she didn't have to DO anything, but she just stood there anyway.

My husband agreed with

James, and says that I should phone the doctor, explain the situation and ask him to give the boy the treatment himself. I say the doctor will think that I am crazy. After all, he hired that girl to perform such services and he will certainly not stand there for 15 minutes himself.

We are still not in agreement over this. Would you be kind enough to give us your opinion?

JAMES' MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Call the doctor and tell him how your son feels. I think it's a perfectly normal reaction and a valid complaint.

DEAR ABBY: I am a freshman at college and have a serious question to ask you. When a boy tries to get you to go all the way by asking, "You wouldn't buy a pair of shoes without trying them on, would you?" What is a girl supposed to say?

STUPID DEAR STUPID: "I'd rather buy a pair of shoes without trying them on, than get stuck with a pair that's been worn by everybody in town."

CONFIDENTIAL TO JERRI Just read your 34-page letter and shall send you a personal reply when you send me your address. In the meantime, if you wish to cry over spilt milk, next time—please condense it.

Brown Spider Threat Ended

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — Officials at Mattoon High School have announced that classes will resume Tuesday following an invasion of dangerous brown recluse spiders that forced the closing of the school.

Supt. John G. Warg closed the school Thursday afternoon after a biology teacher found one of the spiders in a desk drawer at the school. Exterminators were called.

The exterminators reported Friday they found the spiders throughout the school and said thousands of them had invaded halls and lockers in the building.

family physician on their staff," he added.

The greatest danger created by this trend, Edgar said, is the impersonal attitude that could evolve if the family physician becomes extinct.

A patient may no longer be viewed as a whole human being with an ailment of one part of the body affecting other parts but rather as a group of organs with each specialist interested only in the area of the body encompassed by his specialty.

Another danger created by the lack of family doctors, Edgar said, is that many rural communities do not have a physician within fifty miles.

To increase the number of family physicians on Ohio, the OSMA is sponsoring a preceptorship program whereby medical students entering their fourth year of training may spend two weeks working under a practicing family physician.

The association hopes the program will install an interest in family practice in students who would otherwise not be exposed to it.

Under another program the OSMA gives $2,000 medical scholarships to students from non-metropolitan areas in hopes of increasing the number of rural family physicians. But, according to Edgar, "Our experience in this has been pretty sad."

The AMA Family Practice Committee reported, "There is need for a new kind of specialist in family medicine, educated to provide comprehensive personal health care, because of the complexity of modern medicine and the health care system."

The committee also calls for more concentrated family practice training in today's medical schools.

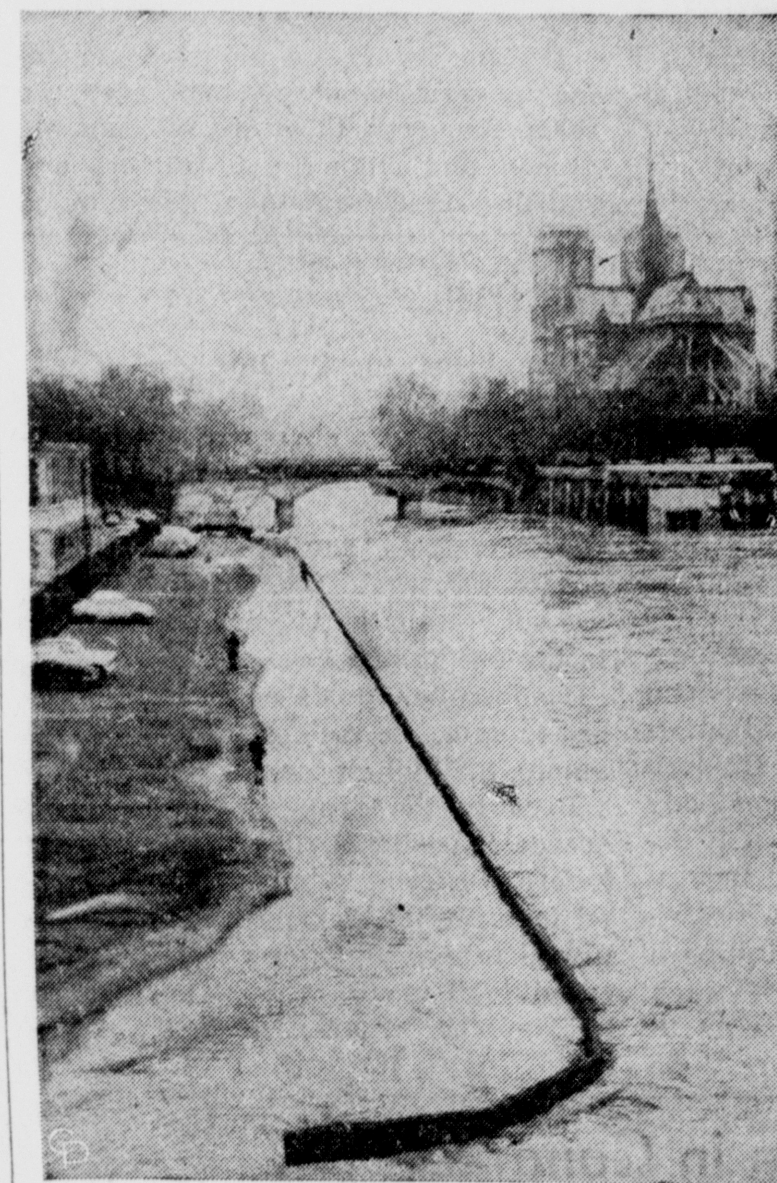

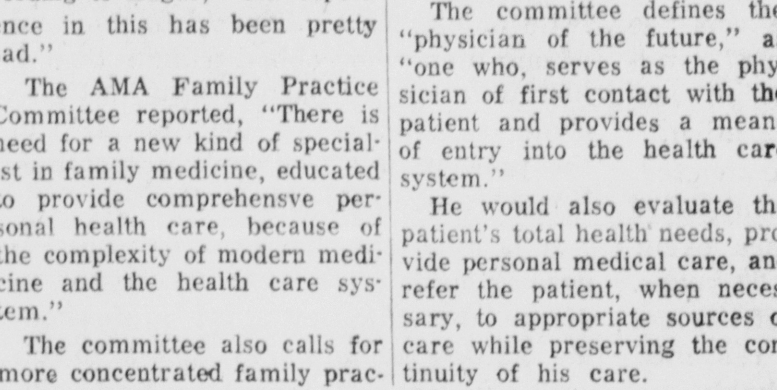

The committee defines the "physician of the future," as "one who, serves as the physician of first contact with the patient and provides a means of entry into the health care system."

He would also evaluate the patient's total health needs, provide personal medical care, and refer the patient, when necessary, to appropriate sources of care while preserving the continuity of his care.

Brown Spider Threat Ended

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — Officials at Mattoon High School have announced that classes will resume Tuesday following an invasion of dangerous brown recluse spiders that forced the closing of the school.

Supt. John G. Warg closed the school Thursday afternoon after a biology teacher found one of the spiders in a desk drawer at the school. Exterminators were called.

The exterminators reported Friday they found the spiders throughout the school and said thousands of them had invaded halls and lockers in the building.

Stevenson Moore III, an agricultural entomologist at the University of Illinois, said the spiders were not "highly fatal," but their bite caused intense pain.

New Deal for Thieves

Criminals in Britain are to get a new deal. A theft code before Parliament proposes a maximum of jail for life for burglars armed with any weapon which could cause injury, or if they are armed with an imitation firearm.

Theft will be punished by a maximum of 10 years and thieves may be ordered by court to return the property they stole or the money they got for selling it.

These are stern penalties but present conditions warrant them. In recent years, Britain has had some spectacular robberies. In 1963, there was the daring train robbery in which $7.5 million was stolen with skill and split-second timing like a military operation.

When the thieves were convicted, seven men were sent to prison for 30 years each; two for 25 years each; one for 24 years and one for 20 years.

The judge knew that much of the loot had not been recovered and reasoned that the criminals were probably expecting to get out after quite short sentences, recover their shares and disport themselves in flashy magnificence. He spoiled their dream.

In November thieves broke into the headquarters of a national cooperative store chain and stole $3 million. In May, bandits overpowered the crew of an armored car and got away with bullion worth $2.250 million. In January, a gang broke into a London jewelry store and stole gold and gems worth $700,000.

It is these well planned, thoroughly efficient robberies that have inspired this new legislation. Bank robberies have not reached in Britain the proportions they have in the United States. In the U. S., bank robbery is becoming a profession.

There have been cases recently of little old ladies holding up banks, and of one man who robbed a bank during his office lunch break. A man in California, arrested doing just that, said to the policeman "You can't arrest me, I'm a respectable citizen."

It is apparent that laws are not severe enough in their theft clauses to deter amateurs, let alone professionals. Armed robbers, and those who rob with violence, obviously find the risk worth while.

Perhaps courts should stop regarding these men as "patients" and see them for what they are — cunning, greedy and often cruel, ruthless and selfish — and treat them accordingly.

New Vaccine

One of the cruellest diseases is the Rh blood disorder which kills 10,000 babies every year in the U. S. and 20,000 others throughout the world. It is cruel because it employs the mother's body to kill the child she is bearing.

An Rh condition can occur only when a woman with Rh-negative blood marries a man with Rh-positive blood. Such a marriage occurs in one of eight. If the woman bears a child with Rh-positive blood, there is a chance her body will develop antibodies which will destroy the blood cells of her unborn child.

Rarely does this happen in first-born children. The risk increases with each pregnancy. Doctors have managed to save a few babies by replacing their entire blood supply. But the ailment usually is fatal.

A New Jersey pharmaceutical company has developed a vaccine which has successfully prevented the Rh condition from developing in all but one of 600 test cases, and physicians are not certain the vaccine was at fault in the one failure.

If subsequent tests confirm the record to date, the rate of success will be among the highest for any vaccine.

Because the drug is made from scarce ingredients, it may be a year before sufficient supplies are stockpiled to meet the demand. Federal approval to market it also must be gained. But all in all, it looks very much like another major medical breakthrough is on the way.

Even in Congress

The 90th Congress passed a minor miracle in attaching to the pay-increase bill a ban on federal officials' hiring their relatives — from wives and in-laws to step-sisters — or even recommending them for jobs.

The amendment's sponsor, Rep. Neal Smith of Iowa, aimed the amendment primarily at small-town postmasters who insist on hiring their wives or nobody — but it hits members of Congress as well.

Kin presently on payrolls are safe, thus sparing, according to a count early in the session, relatives of some 38 representatives and four senators.

Congress was careful, though, to limit the rule to jobs in the department in which an official serves or over which he has jurisdiction.

This leaves the way open for "gentle" nudging of other agencies, not to mention the possibility of trading a job in the House for a job in the Senate.

A question lingers as to how long the restriction will last if it cramps the style or budget of too many congressmen. But for now it represents a welcome departure from the tendency on Capitol Hill to apply ethical standards only to the other fellow — like the village postmaster.

You're Telling Me!

The Nonpartisan Committee for an Effective Congress thinks the U.S. may be suffering from a kind of national nervous breakdown. So many of us walk the streets, don't bother with shaving, etc.

The committee thinks people should look to Congress for a cure instead of to the president. Depends on which makes you most nervous.

The Committee for an Effective Congress tries to improve government by supporting congressional candidates who act independently of local and special interests. They keep looking for them right along.

The committee says there are political forces at work that "involve people's morale more than their material comfort." That can't mean the Internal Revenue Service, because it gets you both ways.

The Committee for an Effective Congress says "The country may be on the brink of . . . a depression of the national spirit." And it's prescribing Congress?

The committee says the political parties are failing to attract the young. Well, in view of conditions the young are too busy, either working or picketing.

The committee says party identity is becoming increasingly less important in Congress. It doesn't say what that has to do with effectiveness, but its difficult to keep your seat while standing up to be counted.

'Wonderful World' A Money-Loser

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state's money-losing "Wonderful World of Ohio" magazine needs a change in management, State Auditor Roger Cloud suggests in a critical report.

Cloud's reports said, "this is not a question of anybody's honesty. The magazine has just lacked good business management."

LSD Interferes With Genetics

NEW YORK (AP) — The Medical Society of New York County says recent studies have established a clearer link between use of the hallucinogenic drug LSD and damage to the genetic material of human beings.

The society said 80 to 85 percent of the LSD users studied "manifested both an unusually high incidence of chromosomal breaks and chromosomal rearrangements."

It also noted that similar chromosomal abnormalities were found in some of the offspring of women who had taken the drug during pregnancy.

Chromosomes, the rod-like containers of genes found in all cells, transmit hereditary information that shapes human characteristics from generation to generation.

"I MET MY WIFE in a most unusual way," recalled a speculator in Wall Street. "I ran over her in my car, then one thing followed another, and at last I married her." "Hmph," mused the man in the next chair. "If everyone had to do that, there wouldn't be so much reckless driving!"

In Dennis Bloodworth's fascinating "The Chinese Looking Glass," he emphasizes the futility of attempting to predict the Chinese reaction to any plan or happenstance. For example, he cites a day during a recent disturbance outside the office of the British charge d'affaires in Peking when the Chinese staff gravely requested permission from the charge d'affaires to join the howling, threatening demonstration just beyond the gate. Permission granted (there was actually no alternative), the staff joined the rabble, yelled a while, hurled a few bricks at windows, then returned with dignity to their duties, which they proceeded to perform as punctiliously as before!

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Blood donors who are called in to give their blood for a member of the family may sometimes be harboring a germ or a virus that may cause a reaction in the person who needs a transfusion. Blood banks have learned to carefully screen blood donors and have been successful in ruling out those who might be dangerous. Despite these precautions the blood donors are sometimes carriers of the virus that produces hepatitis or liver infections in those who are given the blood.

Many tests have been devised to give added assurance that risky blood donors will be completely eliminated.

Dr. Jerald Bevan of the University of Rochester, in New York has done an interesting study with Dr. H. F. Taswell and Dr. G. J. Gleich of the Mayo Clinic. They have found a method by which they can actually pick out at least six of every ten blood donors who might be classed as "high risks." By measuring a form of globulin in the serum they have found remnants of infection that might have been dangerous to transfused patients. This additional test is now being added to many others used to screen donors and to exclude people who might be a possible hazard.

Patients who are candidates for transfusion should be assured that the chances are slight, very slight, of having any adverse reaction from receiving blood. Certainly, the value of receiving blood is infinitely greater than the slight risk of an infection.

The long struggle against leukemia continues in all parts of this country and in hospitals all over the world. Daily, additional information seems to accrue that brings greater hope to the afflicted and relieves the fears of those who are terrified by the very name leukemia.

Dr. William Dameshek, Professor of Medicine at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine recently indicated at a medical meeting that more and more hopeful techniques are becoming available for the treatment and control of some forms of leukemia.

Leukemia is often referred to as a cancer of the blood. Actually this is not completely true, but indicates the severity of this blood condition.

Wide and important gains have been achieved in the treatment of leukemia with chemical agents. Dr. Dameshek states,

"Certainly the survival time of childhood leukemia has been drastically changed. Now, there are even five and ten year controls of this malignant condition."

These drugs are serving a significant purpose until the total answer to the causes and cure of leukemia becomes available. The answer is distinctly on the horizon. The attainment of this goal is the constant objective of the research workers all over the world.

They are never discouraged or disappointed when the promising leads do not bring immediate fulfillment. Dr. Dameshek and his colleagues are encouraged by the constant progress towards the eventual goal of the eradication of leukemia.

The World Today

By JOHN CHADWICK (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's bipartisan ethics committee is nearing completion of its proposed standards of conduct for senators, Senate officials and Senate employees.

At the heart of the code it will submit is expected to be some kind of financial disclosure requirement.

Whatever form this takes, it is certain to lead to controversy within the Senate over the difficult and sensitive issue of how far, if at all, men should be compelled to go in disclosing the amount and the sources of their income, assets, liabilities and business and professional activities.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has been a leading advocate of requiring senators and all Senate aides earning $10,000 a year or more to file and make public annually a detailed financial report.

An outspoken foe has been Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who contends that financial disclosure proposals would make second-class citizens out of senators.

Sources close to the ethics committee, officially titled The Select Committee on Standards and Conduct, indicate it will take a moderate approach that will not go as far as Clark would like but that will not suit Dirksen, either.

The sharp division in the Senate was reflected in the 46-42 vote by which Clark's proposal was rejected last Sept. 12.

Although Clark was defeated, the vote was the closest yet. And one argument used against him was that the Senate should wait for the recommendation of its ethics committee.

Advocates of financial disclosure had their cause bolstered by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a recent magazine article.

Shortly before Congress adjourned last month, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the ethics committee chairman, said it expected to put its recommendations into final form shortly.

He asked that the Senate leadership set a time for taking up its proposed standards of conduct later this month. However, action may be delayed since a battle over a civil rights bill may tie up the Senate after it returns on Jan. 15.

Financial disclosure is only part of the code of conduct the ethics committee is expected to recommend.

Stennis said that during the last two years the committee has attempted to explore most of the problems of ethical conduct by senators and Senate aides that have arisen in recent years.

These include the case of Bob by Baker, the former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority who became a millionaire while on the Senate payroll. He was convicted a year ago of theft, conspiracy and income tax evasion.

Last June the Senate censured one of its own members, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., on a finding by the committee that he had converted at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal benefit.

Committee sources said the proposed standards of conduct will definitely deal with testimonial fund-raising affairs such as figured in the Dodd case.

HOME TOWN, U.S.A. (AP) — "Housewives are such utter fools," announced Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average wife.

When Trellis Mae made a flat statement like that, Wilbur, her husband, knew better than to contradict her. He also knew better than to agree with her outright.

"Uh-uh," he said noncommittally.

"Aren't you ever interested in why I think all housewives are utter fools?" demanded Trellis Mae.

"Uh huh," replied her spouse, looking at her warily.

"The reason I think we housewives are such utter fools is that we are all so disorganized—totally disorganized."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that about you," said Wilbur, glancing around the kitchen. "The place looks pretty spic and span—or will, anyways, after I finish drying the dishes and you take out the garbage."

"I am not talking about neat-

ness, I am talking about being disorganized."

"Well, if housewives are disorganized," asked Wilbur, still at sea, "just who is organized?"

"The subway workers and bus drivers of New York City—that's who!" exclaimed Trellis Mae.

"I know you're not going to leave me just standing here wondering," murmured Wilbur. "What's it all about?"

"Well, those transit workers have got a great big union for all. And I just read in the paper they signed a new contract that will get them more money and has new fringes on their old fringe benefits."

"Such as?"

"Well, the big thing is that they can retire at half-pay after spending only 20 years in a nice warm comfortable subway, where they have chances to meet all kinds of interesting people."

"And—?"

"And I don't think it's fair."

"Fair to us housewives. Sub-

way drivers have it easy compared to housewives."

"And it's all because we're so disorganized. We should have a great big union, too, and win equal rights with the subway drivers. Then we could retire in 20 years at half-pay."

"The idea has some merit," said Wilbur, after a thoughtful pause. "Let me see now. We've been married 19 years, and I'm paying you nothing a week. That means in another year I could retire you at half of that."

"Yes, but—"

"Then, of course, I'd have the problem of breaking in a younger wife on the job," continued her husband.

"A what?"

"A younger wife."

"Oh, Wilbur, you wouldn't, would you?" said Trellis Mae.

"You just form that big union of wives and see what happens," said Wilbur, as he bent and kissed her triumphantly.

ly he knew that this was one subject Trellis Mae would never bring up again in his lifetime.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Enough evidence is accumulating now to make an early verdict: Americans in 1968 still are holding tightly to their money despite all those forecasts of a consumer buying boom.

The latest proof came during the recent Christmas sales season, when buyers were less exuberant than expected. Believing this may be difficult for those who endured the crush in stores, but it is so. Expectations had been very, very high.

Records were set by many stores, but these records still were below forecasts. The gains that resulted were mainly those that come with increasing affluence and population.

Despite high hopes, plenty of savings, credit cards and the Christmas spirit, the consumer appeared to remain firmly planted in a pattern that developed in 1966, when savings began rising sharply at the expense of sales.

At times during 1967 the percentage of savings to take home pay rose above 7 per cent and very likely still is near that figure, a high mark for the 1960s. By comparison, the percentage was only 5.8 in 1965.

This difference may seem small but it amounts to billions. The difference over a year between a 5.8 per cent savings rate and a 7 per cent rate is about $6.5 billion.

Retailers have been salivating over such a high rate of savings for months but have been unable to partake of it. And now these savings have eluded them at Christmas also.

Should this high rate of saving continue in 1968, and so far the evidence that it will dispute the contention of forecasters that it cannot continue, the inflationary pressures might be less than expected.

It is inflation, in fact, that seems to be one of the consumer's great worries, a worry that causes him to save for some poorer times.

This perhaps is not the wisest course to follow during inflation, for savings deposited in a bank today grow almost insignificantly. A four per cent interest rate is little hedge against rising costs and rising taxes.

Nevertheless, the consumer's rationale is explained this way in the most recent University of Michigan consumer survey:

"Because they worry about the expected trend of prices, many consumers feel they will have to spend more on necessities and therefore must postpone some discretionary expenditures."

The survey, which has been conducted regularly since 1951, finds that consumers during the latter part of 1967 were "uncertain but not pessimistic."

'Wonderful World'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's money-losing "Wonderful World of Ohio" magazine needs a change in management, State Auditor Roger Cloud suggests in a critical report.

Cloud's reports said, "this is not a question of anybody's honesty. The magazine has just lacked good business management."

LSD Interferes

With Genetics

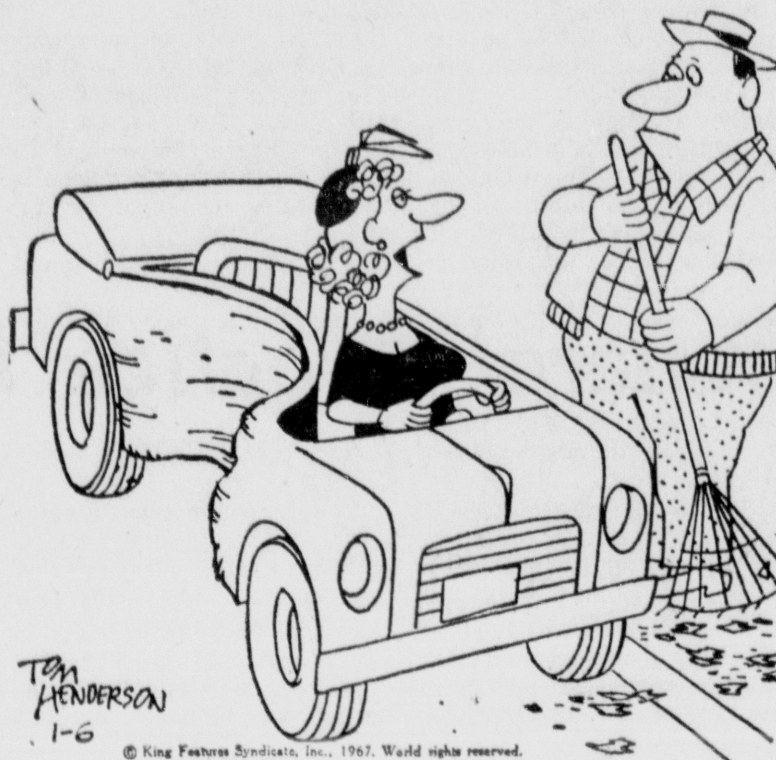

NEW YORK (AP) — The Medical Society of New York County says recent studies have established a clearer link between use of the hallucinogenic drug LSD and damage to the genetic material of human beings.

The society said 80 to 85 per cent of the LSD users studied "manifested both an unusually high incidence of chromosomal breaks and chromosomal rearrangements."

It also noted that similar chromosomal abnormalities were found in some of the offspring of women who had taken the drug during pregnancy.

Chromosomes, the rod-like containers of genes found in all cells, transmit hereditary information that shapes human characteristics from generation to generation.

By BENNETT CERF

"I MET MY WIFE in a most unusual way," recalled a speculator in Wall Street. "I ran over her in my car, then one thing followed another, and at last I married her." "Hmhm," mused the man in the next chair. "If everyone had to do that, there wouldn't be so much reckless driving!"

In Dennis Bloodworth's fascinating "The Chinese Looking Glass," he emphasizes the futility of attempting to predict the Chinese reaction to any plan or happenstance. For example, he cites a day during a recent disturbance outside the office of the British charge d'affaires in Peking when the Chinese staff gravely requested permission from the charge d'affaires to join the howling, threatening demonstration just beyond the gate. Permission granted (there was actually no alternative), the staff joined the rabble, yelled a while, hurled a few bricks at windows, then returned with dignity to their duties, which they proceeded to perform as punctiliously as before!

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Blood donors who are called in to give their blood for a member of the family may sometimes be harboring a germ or a virus that may cause a reaction in the person who needs a transfusion. Blood banks have learned to carefully screen blood donors and have been successful in ruling out those who might be dangerous. Despite these precautions the blood donors are sometimes carriers of the virus that produces hepatitis or liver infections in those who are given the blood.

Many tests have been devised to give added assurance that risky blood donors will be completely eliminated. Dr. Jerald Bevan of the University of Rochester, in New York has done an interesting study with Dr. H. F. Taswell and Dr. G. J. Gleich of the Mayo Clinic. They have found a method by which they can actually pick out at least six of every ten blood donors who might be classed as high risks. By measuring a form of globulin in the serum they have found remnants of infection that might have been dangerous to transfused patients. This additional test is now being added to many others used to screen donors and to exclude people who might be a possible hazard.

Patients who are candidates for transfusion should be assured that the chances are slight, very slight, of having any adverse reaction from receiving blood. Certainly, the value of receiving blood is infinitely greater than the slight risk of an infection.

The long struggle against leukemia continues in all parts of this country and in hospitals all over the world. Daily, additional information seems to accrue that brings greater hope to the afflicted and relieves the fears of those who are terrified by the very name leukemia.

Dr. William Dameshek, Professor of Medicine at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine recently indicated at a medical meeting that more and more hopeful techniques are becoming available for the treatment and control of some forms of leukemia. Leukemia is often referred to as a cancer of the blood. Actually this is not completely true, but indicates the severity of this blood condition.

Wide and important gains have been achieved in the treatment of leukemia with chemical agents. Dr. Dameshek states,

The World Today

By JOHN CHADWICK (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's bipartisan ethics committee is nearing completion of its proposed standards of conduct for senators, Senate officials and Senate employees.

At the heart of the code it will submit is expected to be some kind of financial disclosure requirement.

Whatever form this takes, it is certain to lead to controversy within the Senate over the difficult and sensitive issue of how far, if at all, men should be compelled to go in disclosing the amount and the sources of their income, assets, liabilities and business and professional activities.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has been a leading advocate of requiring senators and all Senate aides earning $10,000 a year or more to file and make public annually a detailed financial report.

An outspoken foe has been Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who contends that financial disclosure proposals would make second-class citizens out of senators.

Sources close to the ethics committee, officially titled The Select Committee on Standards and Conduct, indicate it will take a moderate approach that will not go as far as Clark would like but that will not suit Dirksen, either.

The sharp division in the Senate was reflected in the 46-42 vote by which Clark's proposal was rejected last Sept. 12.

Although Clark was defeated, the vote was the closest yet. And one argument used against him was that the Senate should wait for the recommendation of its ethics committee.

Advocates of financial disclosure had their cause bolstered by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a recent magazine article.

Shortly before Congress adjourned last month, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the ethics committee chairman, said it expected to put its recommendations into final form shortly.

He asked that the Senate leadership set a time for taking up its proposed standards of conduct later this month. However, action may be delayed since a battle over a civil rights bill may tie up the Senate after it returns on Jan. 15.

Financial disclosure is only part of the code of conduct the ethics committee is expected to recommend.

Stennis said that during the last two years the committee has attempted to explore most of the problems of ethical conduct by senators and Senate aides that have arisen in recent years.

These include the case of Bobby Baker, the former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority who became a millionaire while on the Senate payroll. He was convicted a year ago of theft, conspiracy and income tax evasion.

And last June the Senate censured one of its own members, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., on a finding by the committee that he had converted at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal benefit.

Committee sources said the proposed standards of conduct will definitely deal with testimonial fund-raising affairs such as figured in the Dodd case.

HOME TOWN, U.S.A. (AP) — "Housewives are such utter fools," announced Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average wife.

When Trellis Mae made a flat statement like that, Wilbur, her husband, knew better than to contradict her. He also knew better than to agree with her outright.

"Uh-uh," he said noncommittally.

"Aren't you ever interested in why I think all housewives are utter fools?" demanded Trellis Mae.

"Uh huh," replied her spouse, looking at her warily.

"The reason I think we housewives are such utter fools is that we are all so disorganized — totally disorganized."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that about you," said Wilbur, glancing around the kitchen. "The place looks pretty spic and span—or will, anyways, after I finish drying the dishes and you take out the garbage."

"I am not talking about neat-

ness. I am talking about being disorganized."

"Well, if housewives are disorganized," asked Wilbur, still at sea, "just who is organized?"

"The subway workers and bus drivers of New York City—that's who!" exclaimed Trellis Mae.

"I know you're not going to leave me just standing here wondering," murmured Wilbur. "What's it all about?"

"Well, those transit workers have got a great big union for all. And I just read in the paper they signed a new contract that will get them more money and has new fringes on their old fringe benefits."

"Such as?"

"Well, the big thing is that they can retire at half-pay after spending only 20 years in a nice warm comfortable subway, where they have chances to meet all kinds of interesting people."

"And—?"

"And I don't think it's fair."

"Fair to us housewives, Sub-

way drivers have it easy compared to housewives."

"And it's all because we're so disorganized. We should have a great big union, too, and win equal rights with the subway drivers. Then we could retire in 20 years at half-pay."

"The idea has some merit," said Wilbur, after a thoughtful pause. "Let me see now. We've been married 19 years, and I'm paying you nothing a week. That means in another year I could retire you at half of that."

"Yes, but—"

"Then, of course, I'd have the problem of breaking in a younger wife on the job," continued her husband.

"A what?"

"A younger wife."

"Oh, Wilbur, you wouldn't, would you?" said Trellis Mae.

"You just form that big union of wives and see what happens," said Wilbur, and as he bent and kissed her triumphantly he knew that this was one subject Trellis Mae would never bring up again in his lifetime.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Enough evidence is accumulating now to make an early verdict: Americans in 1968 still are holding tightly to their money despite all those forecasts of a consumer buying boom.

The latest proof came during the recent Christmas sales season, when buyers were less exuberant than expected. Believing this may be difficult for those who endured the crush in stores, but it is so. Expectations had been very, very high.

Records were set by many stores, but these records still were below forecasts. The gains that resulted were mainly those that came with increasing affluence and population.

Despite high hopes, plenty of savings, credit cards and the Christmas spirit, the consumer appeared to remain firmly planted in a pattern that developed in 1966, when savings began rising sharply at the expense of sales.

At times during 1967 the percentage of savings to take home pay rose above 7 per cent and very likely still is near that figure, a high mark for the 1960s. By comparison, the percentage was only 5.8 in 1965.

This difference may seem small but it amounts to billions. The difference over a year between a 5.8 per cent savings rate and a 7 per cent rate is about $6.5 billion.

Retailers have been salivating over such a high rate of savings for months but have been unable to partake of it. And now these savings have eluded them at Christmas also.

Should this high rate of saving continue in 1968, and so far the evidence that it will disposes the contention of forecasters that it cannot continue, the inflationary pressures might be less than expected.

It is inflation, in fact, that seems to be one of the consumer's great worries, a worry that ceases him to save for some poorer times.

This perhaps is not the wisest course to follow during inflation, for savings deposited in a bank today grow almost insignificant. A four per cent interest rate is little hedge against rising costs and rising taxes.

Nevertheless, the consumer's rationale is explained this way in the most recent University of Michigan consumer survey:

"Because they worry about the expected trend of prices, many consumers feel they will have to spend more on necessities and therefore must postpone some discretionary expenditures."

The survey, which has been conducted regularly since 1951, finds that consumers during the latter part of 1967 were "uncertain but not pessimistic."

21 Firms Accused in GAO Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire has named 21 defense contractors he said are "misusing costly government-owned property."

The Wisconsin Democrat said the firms are a sampling of some 5,500 defense contractors who have government-owned equipment for defense work.

The sampling, he said, shows the government "is losing hundreds of millions of dollars" through questionable use of Pentagon-supplied equipment.

Proxmire said the sampling, produced through an inquiry by the General Accounting Office, is representative. He said the GAO believes similar shortcomings would be found in other firms.

"These contractors are typical," Proxmire told a news conference. "These contractors shouldn't be considered the black sheep of the industrial world at all."

The GAO inquiry was taken at the request of the Joint Economic Committee headed by Proxmire.

A major GAO complaint, Proxmire said, was that 12 contractors who held $15.9 million in government-owned equipment made limited use of it for defense purposes, or used it extensively for their own commercial work.

These are the 21 firms Proxmire said were covered by the GAO inquiry:

FMC Corp., Northern Ordnance Division, Minneapolis.
Holley Carburetor Co., Warren, Mich.
Menasco Manufacturing Co., Texas Division, Fort Worth, Tex.

Postal Official Says Pay Hike May Not Be Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top postal official says that while it's still possible the new $900 million-a-year postal rate increase may not be enough he's hopeful there won't be another rate hike for five years.

Ralph W. Nicholson, assistant postmaster general in charge of finance and administration, commented Thursday in answer to a reporter's questions.

The rate hike that becomes effective Sunday will raise the price of mailing a letter from five to six cents. Airmail letters go from eight to ten cents, post cards from four to five cents and air postal cards from six to eight cents.

Nicholson noted that even after the rate hike the annual deficit in postal operations won't disappear. The current deficit is about $644 million.

With the increase, the deficit is expected to drop to $479 million by the end of the current fiscal year next June 30. By June 30, 1969, it should be down to $415 million, but by June 30, 1970, Nicholson predicts, it will be back up to $436 million.

The rate increase was tied to a series of pay raises for the nation's 450,000 postal workers. The raises are in three steps: 6 per cent effective retroactively to last Oct. 7; 5 per cent effective next July 13 and a yet-to-be announced amount effective in July 1969.

These pay hikes will consume much of what the post office gets from the increased revenue resulting from the rate rise.

The postal deficit isn't all, however, that the taxpayer pays to keep the post office operating. The post office budget for the current year is about $6.488 billion. The post office—under the old rate schedule—will have revenues estimated at $5.253 billion. The difference—or $1.235 billion—is what the taxpayer supplied to keep the post office operating beyond what it receives from its customers.

Of this amount, $591 million is considered to be the "public service" cost of operating the department — namely, the amount expected to be supplied by the taxpayers to subsidize services considered to benefit everybody, including free mail for the blind, lower rates for nonprofit organizations and reduced rates for educational materials.

The remaining $644 million—what's neither a public service cost nor covered by revenues—is the deficit.

In theory, revenue from all postal services as a group must cover the cost of operating the Post Office Department—with the exception of the public service cost.

Thus, revenue from the higher priorities of mail—first class and air mail, for example—will more than cover the cost of handling this mail. Revenue from lower classes — third class advertising circulars, for example — covers only part of its cost because it's handled on a lower priority basis.

Under the new postal rate schedule, rates for third class go up about 34 per cent and second class—newspapers and magazines—will go up about 24 per cent.

When all the new rates are in effect, first class mail will cover 110 per cent of its cost, air mail letters 119 per cent, and air parcel post, 157 per cent.

Third class "junk" mail will cover 72 to 75 per cent of its cost, compared with 61 per cent under the old rates. Second class will cover about 33 per cent compared with 29 per cent now. Collectively, revenue for all mail will finance about 88 per cent of the handling cost.

The Wisconsin Democrat said the firms are a sampling of some 5,500 defense contractors who have government-owned equipment for defense work.

The sampling, he said, shows the government "is losing hundreds of millions of dollars" through questionable use of Pentagon-supplied equipment.

Proxmire said the sampling, produced through an inquiry by the General Accounting Office, is representative. He said the GAO believes similar shortcomings would be found in other firms.

"These contractors are typical," Proxmire told a news conference. "These contractors shouldn't be considered the black sheep of the industrial world at all."

The GAO inquiry was taken at the request of the Joint Economic Committee headed by Proxmire.

A major GAO complaint, Proxmire said, was that 12 contractors who held $15.9 million in government-owned equipment made limited use of it for defense purposes, or used it extensively for their own commercial work.

These are the 21 firms Proxmire said were covered by the GAO inquiry:

FMC Corp., Northern Ordnance Division, Minneapolis.
Holley Carburetor Co., Warren, Mich.
Menasco Manufacturing Co., Texas Division, Fort Worth, Tex.
Selb Manufacturing Co., Walnut Ridge, Ark.
Blades Manufacturing Co., Rector, Ark.

Postal Official Says Pay Hike May Not Be Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top postal official says that while it's still possible the new $900 million-a-year postal rate increase may not be enough he's hopeful there won't be another rate hike for five years.

Ralph W. Nicholson, assistant postmaster general in charge of finance and administration, commented Thursday in answer to a reporter's questions.

The rate hike that becomes effective Sunday will raise the price of mailing a letter from five to six cents. Airmail letters go from eight to ten cents, post cards from four to five cents and air postal cards from six to eight cents.

Nicholson noted that even after the rate hike the annual deficit in postal operations won't disappear. The current deficit is about $644 million.

With the increase, the deficit is expected to drop to $479 million by the end of the current fiscal year next June 30. By June 30, 1969, it should be down to $415 million, but by June 30, 1970, Nicholson predicts, it will be back up to $436 million.

The rate increase was tied to a series of pay raises for the nation's 450,000 postal workers. The raises are in three steps: 6 per cent effective retroactively to last Oct. 7; 5 per cent effective next July 13 and a yet-to-be announced amount effective in July 1969.

These pay hikes will consume much of what the post office gets from the increased revenue resulting from the rate rise.

The postal deficit isn't all, however, that the taxpayer pays to keep the post office operating. The post office budget for the current year is about $6.488 billion. The post office—under the old rate schedule—will have revenues estimated at $5.253 billion. The difference—or $1.235 billion—is what the taxpayer supplied to keep the post office operating beyond what it receives from its customers.

Of this amount, $591 million is considered to be the "public service" cost of operating the department — namely, the amount expected to be supplied by the taxpayers to subsidize services considered to benefit everybody, including free mail for the blind, lower rates for nonprofit organizations and reduced rates for educational materials.

The remaining $644 million—what's neither a public service cost nor covered by revenues—is the deficit.

In theory, revenue from all postal services as a group must cover the cost of operating the Post Office Department—with the exception of the public service cost.

Thus, revenue from the higher priorities of mail—first class and air mail, for example—will more than cover the cost of handling this mail. Revenue from lower classes — third class advertising circulars, for example — covers only part of its cost because it's handled on a lower priority basis.

Under the new postal rate schedule, rates for third class go up about 34 per cent and second class—newspapers and magazines—will go up about 24 per cent.

When all the new rates are in effect, first class mail will cover 110 per cent of its cost, air mail letters 119 per cent, and air parcel post, 157 per cent.

Third class "junk" mail will cover 72 to 75 per cent of its cost, compared with 61 per cent under the old rates. Second class will cover about 33 per cent compared with 29 per cent now. Collectively, revenue for all mail will finance about 88 per cent of the handling cost.

Freedom Is Fattening

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (AP) — Two months of freedom apparently agreed with Edgar Albert Lipman, who escaped from the Los Angeles Hall of Justice. When he fled Nov. 1 after threatening a bailiff with a knife, he weighed 280 pounds. When he was captured some two months later by the FBI, the 6-foot-2 Lipman weighed 300 pounds.

Vikings Outlast Reynoldsburg '5' In 65-63 Metropolitan League Tilt

By HERB AMEY

Teays Valley, fighting off a last period rally, slipped past Reynoldsburg, 65-63, Friday in a Metropolitan League tilt staged on the Vikings' floor.

The win places Teays Valley with a 3-2 record in the loop. The Vikings have won four and lost four overall. They are tied for second in the league with Franklin Heights and Whitehall.

The Vikings opened up a 10-4 lead midway through the first period. Reynoldsburg fought back and gained a 13-12 edge with a little more than a minute left. Mike Lombardo's field goal, marking his seventh point, put Teays Valley back on top at the buzzer, 14-13.

The Raiders again took over the lead, 20-18, after two minutes of play in the second period. But Teays Valley poured it on and Bruce Roese's 35-foot push shot at the buzzer gave the Vikings a 34-27 halftime edge.

TEAYS Valley took 27 shots at the basket during the first half, connecting on 13. From the line they hit eight of 10. The Raiders made 12 of 23 field goal attempts and three of six free losses. Rebounding was even, with each team grabbing 12. The Vikings committed 10 turnovers and Reynoldsburg had nine.

Continuing to apply the pressure in the second half, the Vikings went into a full court press during the third period. The strategy worked and Teays Valley built up a 52-44 edge at the start of the final period.

Reynoldsburg followed up the Vikings' plans in the finale, also pressing. The Raiders netted eight quick points while pulling within two, 54-52.

With 5:14 remaining, Eric Talbott was fouled by Teays Valley's Mike Lombardo. Talbott made both free throws and the score was knotted, 54-54.

Dale Lambert stole the ball and laid it in the bucket to give the Vikings a 56-54 lead. Geoff Curtiss quickly wiped it out with a 25 foot shot. Two free tosses by Walt Newman put the Vikings on top again for good, 58-56.

Reggie Blackburn tossed in a free throw for the Raiders but Rex Gregg pushed the score to 60-57 with a field goal for Teays Valley. Blackburn pumped in a two pointer for Reynoldsburg.

Next contest for the Vikings is Friday when they travel to Hamilton Twp. for another Metro Loop tilt. Next Saturday's opposition is Columbus Central in a tilt played at Teays Valley.

Hula Bowl May Become Mud Contest

HONOLULU (AP) — The South leads the North in All-American players, 5-3, for the 22nd Hula Bowl game—college football's last gasp—but one of the North's three might make the difference.

He is kicker Jerry DePoyster of Wyoming, a field goal threat from almost anywhere inside midfield, and a long distance punter too.

A tropical rainstorm settled over Hawaii the day before the all-star game, which will be televised nationally via the Lani Bird Satellite starting at 5 p.m., EST, today.

The South has Gary Beban, Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA, to do its quarterbacking and Ron Yary of USC and Edgar Chandler of Georgia to lead the way for him. They are All-Americans along with USC line-backer Adrian Young and Virginia Tech's punt return specialist Frank Loria.

The North has burly fullback Larry Rsonka of Syracuse and middle guard Wayne Meyland of Nebraska, plus DePoyster from the All-American team.

A ninth member, Granville Liggins of Oklahoma, was scheduled to play but was injured in the Orange Bowl and did not make the trip.

Amanda Whips Fenwick, 89-46

Amanda - Clearcreek maintained its domination of the Fairfield County basketball league Friday, defeating Lancaster Bishop Fenwick, 89-46.

It was the sixth consecutive win in the FCL for the Aces, whose only loss of the season has been at the hands of Westfall.

South Central Ohio Cage Race Has 3 Teams at Top

The South Central Ohio League basketball chase was thrown into a three-way deadlock Friday.

Miami Trace upset Greenfield on the Tigers' floor by a 69-63 count and Wilmington defeated Washington C.H., 85-62.

Trace held the usually potent Greenfield scoring threat to a total of just 42 points in the first three quarters.

Eddie Summers, a 6-foot cager, was assigned the job of guarding 6-5 Greenfield center Steve Sieg, and held him to 15 points, his lowest scoring effort of the year.

GOOSE Thornberry, the senior Trace guard sank a pair of foul shots with less than a minute to go to give the Panthers the victory.

Close all the way, the score found the hosts in the lead, 16-15 at the end of the first quarter and 33-32 at halftime. Trace gained a one point edge, 43-42, at the end of three periods and manage to hold on for the win.

Willie Mays Keeps Mum On Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Those who expect Willie Mays to hit 714 home runs, manage the San Francisco Giants and shift to first base are advised by one Willie Mays not to wait.

"I might hit 600 but I don't think I'll be able to reach the other one," says Mays, referring to the gap between his 564 home runs and Babe Ruth's all time record of 714. Mays will be 37 on May 6.

"I don't want to manage. It's very hard work and not secure," he said of his future. "I'd have to give it a great deal of thought if it was offered. I'd love to stay in baseball because I think I can do a lot of things for a lot of kids in the teaching field."

"I don't even want to discuss what's going to happen after I stop playing."

Cincy Loses, 142-141

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three points in the right spot does wonders for a basketball team.

Cincinnati's Happy Hairston thought he had the right spot when he hit a field goal and foul shot with 24 seconds left to play in overtime Friday night, giving Cincinnati a two-point lead against Detroit.

But the Pistons' Dave Bing picked a better spot, scoring a three-pointer with only 11 seconds left and giving Detroit the 142-141 victory over the Royals in the National Basketball Association.

Elsewhere, in the NBA Friday night, New York dropped Chicago 121-99, Philadelphia thumped Los Angeles 125-113 and Boston topped Seattle 128-121.

The Wildcats now have a 2-1 record in conference play and stand at 8-5 overall. Logan Elm is 1-1 in the league and is 5-4 in all games.

Bowers connected on four field goals and ten foul shots for his total while Chestnut hit six from the field and six from the foul line.

MIKE Shaw was also a twin figure scorer for the Wildcats. His ten points came on a pair of field goals and six at the charity stripe.

The leading scorer for Logan Elm was senior Dale Jenne, who canned six field goals and four charity tosses. Royce Woolever, the 6-8 center for the Braves was held to 11 points on five field goals and one foul shot.

The difference in the game came at the foul line. Logan Elm, given 30 chances at the free throw line, made only 11.

Laurelville cagers, on the other hand, stepped to the line 43 times and sank 27 of their chances.

The leading rebounder for the winners was Shaw with 13. Bowers and Jeff Whitcraft pulled down nine each.

Whitcraft was credited with an outstanding floor game by his coach, Clyde Crewey. In addition to his nine rebounds and four points, he made seven recoveries and assists in the game.

LAURELVILLE pressed for the first half, building an 18-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and hanging on to the lead, 26-22, at halftime.

In the third period, the Wildcats widened their margin to 46-35, and at one time in the final canto led by 20 points.

Crewey cleared his bench in the closing minutes of play. Bob Bowers fouled out in the third period for the winners, but his backup man, Gerald Disbennett came in to do a good job in holding Woolever according to Crewey.

It marks the second time this year the Wildcats have defeated the Braves, the first year since the two schools began their basketball series that Laurelville has won.

"We were real happy to win this one," Crewey said. "Our boys hustled real well."

Circleville Tigers Open 1968 with 74-62 Cage Loss

Circleville's High School's basketball team opened the new year at Hillsboro with a 75-62 cage loss.

It was the ninth defeat in a row for the Tigers, although they were an improved team over previous games.

The Red and Black opened the game with a hot first quarter, canning 10 of 15 field goals and two of three foul shots for a 22-14 lead.

Jeff Steele was on target in that first period, pacing the Tigers with a 13 point effort coming on six of eight field goal attempts and one foul shot.

THE sharp shooting of Mike Moses; Hillsboro's junior guard was the only thing that kept the Indians in the game during the first period. Moses accounted for 10 of his team's 14 points, connecting on long jump shots.

In the second quarter, the terrific first period performance by Circleville cooled down as they were able to make only three field goals and two foul shots.

Hillsboro poured 24 points through the hoops during the quarter, taking a 38-20 halftime lead. That second quarter scoring effort by Hillsboro was the difference in the game, as the Tigers were able to battle the Indians on even terms until the final few seconds.

During the third quarter never more than eight points separated the two teams and several times the Tigers were within four points.

The score at the end of the third period was 52-44. Again in the fourth quarter Circleville pulled within four points and a couple of occasions and were within three midway through the period. Only six points separated the two teams as the closing minutes of play began.

Circleville, forced to foul to get the ball, gave Hillsboro several opportunities at the foul line in the final minute and the Indians made good on their shots.

STEELE finished the game with 22 points for Circleville on ten field goals and two foul shots. Rick Congrove, who regained a starting position on the team, tossed in six field goals and one foul shot for 13 points. Dave Horst made 11 markers, Charlie Jackson eight, Ty Ankrom seven and George Hill one.

Game scoring laurels went to Moses, who pitched in 10 of 21 shots from the field and made four of four chances at the foul line. Jerry Walker notched 22 points for the winners and Dick Beatty 17.

Circleville had 35 rebounds in the game. Hillsboro pulled 30 off the boards. The Tigers committed 14 turnovers. Hillsboro lost the ball on miscues 10 times.

Circleville is 0-9 for the season and 0-4 in the league.

Vikings Outlast Reynoldsburg '5' In 65-63 Metropolitan League Tilt

By HERB AMEY
Teays Valley, fighting off a last period rally, slipped past Reynoldsburg, 65-63, Friday in a Metropolitan League tilt staged on the Vikings' floor.

The win places Teays Valley with a 3-2 record in the loop. The Vikings have won four and lost four overall. They are tied for second in the league with Franklin Heights and Whitehall.

The Vikings opened up a 10-4 lead midway through the first period. Reynoldsburg fought back and gained a 13-12 edge with a little more than a minute left. Mike Lombardo's field goal, marking his seventh point, put Teays Valley back on top at the buzzer, 14-13.

The Raiders again took over the lead, 20-18, after two minutes of play in the second period. But Teays Valley poured it on and Bruce Roese's 35-foot push shot at the buzzer gave the Vikings a 34-27 halftime edge.

TEAYS Valley took 27 shots at the basket during the first half, connecting on 13. From the line they hit eight of 10. The Raiders made 12 of 23 field goal attempts and three of six free tosses. Rebounding was even, with each team grabbing 12. The Vikings committed 10 turnovers and Reynoldsburg had nine.

Continuing to apply the pressure in the second half, the Vikings went into a full court press during the third period. The strategy worked and Teays Valley built up a 52-44 edge at the start of the final period.

Reynoldsburg followed up the Vikings' plans in the finale, also pressing. The Raiders netted eight quick points while pulling within two, 54-52.

With 5:14 remaining, Eric Talbott was fouled by Teays Valley's Mike Lombardo. Talbott made both free throws and the score was knotted, 54-54.

Dale Lambert stole the ball and laid it in the bucket to give the Vikings a 56-54 lead. Geoff Curtiss quickly wiped it out with a 25 foot shot. Two free tosses by Walt Newman put the Vikings on top again for good, 58-56.

Reggie Blackburn tossed in a free throw for the Raiders but Rex Gregg pushed the score to 60-57 with a field goal for Teays Valley. Blackburn pumped in a two pointer for Reynoldsburg.

WHEN Teays Valley got the ball, they were charged with an offensive foul. But Reynoldsburg turned it over on a walking call. Lambert was fouled and sank both halves of the one and one for Teays Valley and a 62-59 spread.

Reynoldsburg, anxious to score, again turned the ball over. Rex Gregg was fouled and sank one. The Raiders rebounded and for the third time in a row violated the rules and turned the ball over.

But the Vikings paid them back with a miscue of their own. Curtiss worked the ball down the court for the Raiders and took a shot with 45 seconds to play. The ball rolled around but wouldn't drop. Rex Gregg got the ball in Vikingland and scored with just 25 seconds left for a 65-59 lead.

Gene Frasier scored a field goal for Reynoldsburg and the Vikings had the ball again. This time they committed a turnover with five seconds left.

A Reynoldsburg player passed the length of the court as a lead pass to big Frasier. He missed the shot but Blackburn was there to tap it in just as the buzzer sounded.

Second half statistics showed Reynoldsburg with 14 of 30 field goal attempts and eight of 12 free tosses. Teays Valley made nine of 21 shots from the floor and 13 of 21 shots from the charity stripe. Reynoldsburg grabbed 21 rebounds while Teays Valley had 10. The Raiders had 12 turnovers compared with 10 for the Vikings.

FOR the entire game the Raiders outshot Teays Valley in field goals, 26 of 53 to 22 of 48. But the tale was told at the foul stripe. Teays Valley made 21 in 31 shots while Reynoldsburg cashed in on 11 of 18 shots.

Rex Gregg, sophomore guard for the Vikings, tossed in seven field goals in 12 attempts and four free throws in nine for 18 markers. He sparked the Vikings in the final period with eight markers.

Mike Lombardo canned four field goals and five free throws for 13 points. Teammate Dale Lambert had three shots from the floor and six from the line for 12 markers. Walt Newman was the fourth Viking to notch in double figures with 11 points on four field goals and three free throws.

Bruce Roese sank two field goals and two free tosses for six points. Dan Southerns rounded out the Viking scoring with two field goals and a charity toss for five points.

Husky Gene Frasier led a three-man scoring spurge for Reynoldsburg with 18 markers. He flipped in eight field goals from all over the court and added two free tosses.

Curtiss sank seven shots from the field and one from the line for 15 markers. Blackburn added 13 points on four field goals and five free throws. Elmer Keels netted seven markers on three shots from the field and a charity toss. Other Raider scorers were Jim Majerus with four and Jeff Laird, Eric Talbott and Mike Davis with two each.

THE Viking reserves pressed Reynoldsburg en route to their seventh win against one loss, 50-37, in the preliminary tilt. Neil Fosnaugh and Wayne Brown each canned 13 for the winners. Keith Roese had 10 and Rick Teets nine for Teays Valley.

Larry Krause was leading scorer for Reynoldsburg with seven points.

Next contest for the Vikings is Friday when they travel to Hamilton Twp. for another Metro Loop tilt. Next Saturday's opposition is Columbus Central in a tilt played at Teays Valley.

Circleville Tigers Open 1968 with 74-62 Cage Loss

Circleville's High School's basketball team opened the new year at Hillsboro with a 75-62 cage loss.

It was the ninth defeat in a row for the Tigers, although they were an improved team over previous games.

The Red and Black opened the game with a hot first quarter, canning 10 of 15 field goals and two of three foul shots for a 22-14 lead.

Jeff Steele was on target in that first period, pacing the Tigers with a 13 point effort coming on six of eight field goals and one foul shot.

THE sharp shooting of Mike Moses, Hillsboro's junior guard was the only thing that kept the Indians in the game during the first period. Moses accounted for 10 of his team's 14 points, connecting on long jump shots.

In the second quarter, the torrid first period performance by Circleville cooled down as they were able to make only three field goals and two foul shots.

Hillsboro poured 24 points through the hoops during the quarter, taking a 38-20 halftime lead. That second quarter scoring effort by Hillsboro was the difference in the game, as the Tigers were able to battle the Indians on even terms until the final few seconds.

During the third quarter never more than eight points separated the two teams and several times the Tigers were within four points.

The score at the end of the third period was 52-44. Again in the fourth quarter Circleville pulled within four points and a couple of occasions and were within three midway through the period. Only six points separated the two teams as the closing minutes of play began.

Circleville, forced to foul to get the ball, gave Hillsboro several opportunities at the foul line in the final minute and the Indians made good on their shots.

STEELE finished the game with 22 points for Circleville on ten field goals and two foul shots. Rick Congrove, who regained a starting position on the team, tossed in six field goals and one foul shot for 13 points. Dave Horst made 11 markers, Charlie Jackson eight, Ty Ankrom seven and George Hill one.

Game scoring laurels went to Moses, who pitched in 10 of 21 shots from the field and made four of four chances at the foul line. Jerry Walker notched 22 points for the winners and Dick Beatty 17.

Circleville had 35 rebounds in the game. Hillsboro pulled 30 off the boards. The Tigers committed 14 turnovers. Hillsboro lost the ball on miscues 10 times.

From the field Circleville hit 28 of 63 shots. At the foul line the Tigers made six of 10. Hillsboro converted 28 of 65 shots from the field but actually won the game at the charity stripe by capitalizing on 18 of 28 chances.

It was the second win in the South Central Ohio League for the Indians and their fourth win in eight games. They have been beaten twice in league play.

Circleville is 0-9 for the season and 0-4 in the league.

Tonight Circleville hosts Beley in a game slated in the new high school. Next week, the Red and Black will host Greenfield and Westfall on successive nights.

South Central Ohio Cage Race Has 3 Teams at Top

The South Central Ohio League basketball chase was thrown into a three-way deadlock Friday.

Miami Trace upset Greenfield on the Tigers' floor by a 69-63 count and Wilmington defeated Washington C.H., 85-62.

Trace held the usually potent Greenfield scoring threat to a total of just 42 points in the first three quarters.

Eddie Summers, a 6-foot cager, was assigned the job of guarding 6-5 Greenfield center Steve Sieg, and held him to 15 points, his lowest scoring effort of the year.

GOOSE Thornberry, the senior Trace guard sank a pair of foul shots with less than a minute to go to give the Panthers the victory.

Close all the way, the score found the hosts in the lead, 16-15 at the end of the first quarter and 33-32 at halftime. Trace gained a one point edge, 43-42, at the end of three periods and manage to hold on for the win.

STREG Bristley the talented 6-2cager for Greenfield, gained game scoring honors with a 26 point effort. High man for the winners was Phil Bihl with 22.

John Petty paced the Wilmington win with a 33 point performance. Wilmington trailed 21-13 at the end of the first period but pulled to a 38-34 halftime lead and was never threatened in the last two quarters.

The leading scorer for Washington was Joslin with 28 markers.

Wilmington, Greenfield and Miami Trace all have 3-1 records in South Central Ohio League Play. Hillsboro has a 2-2 record in league play, Washington has one win and three losses and Circleville has been beaten four times.

Willie Mays Keeps Mum On Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Those who expect Willie Mays to hit 714 home runs, manage the San Francisco Giants and shift to first base are advised by one Willie Mays not to wait.

"I might hit 600 but I don't think I'll be able to reach the other one," says Mays, referring to the gap between his 564 home runs and Babe Ruth's all time record of 714. Mays will be 37 on May 6.

"I don't want to manage. It's very hard work and not secure," he said of his future. "I'd have to give it a great deal of thought if it was offered. I'd love to stay in baseball because I think I can do a lot of things for a lot of kids in the teaching field."

"I don't even want to discuss what's going to happen after I stop playing."

Three points in the right spot does wonders for a basketball team.

Cincinnati's Happy Hairston thought he had the right spot when he hit a field goal and foul shot with 24 seconds left to play in overtime Friday night, giving Cincinnati a two-point lead against Detroit.

But the Piston's Dave Bing picked a better spot, scoring a three-pointer with only 11 seconds left and giving Detroit the 142-141 victory over the Royals in the National Basketball Association.

Elsewhere, in the NBA Friday night, New York dropped Chicago 121-99, Philadelphia thumped Los Angeles 125-113 and Boston topped Seattle 128-121.

Steve Kinser led the way for the winning Amanda quintet, whipping in 28 points.

Wildcats Claw Braves, 67-53

Laurelville remained in contention for the Scioto Valley Conference cage title, handing visiting Logan Elm a 67-53 defeat Friday.

The Wildcats now have a 2-1 record in conference play and stand at 8-5 overall. Logan Elm is 1-1 in the league and is 5-4 in all games.

Mike Chestnut and Bob Bowers teamed up to pace the winners with 18 points each.

Bowers connected on four field goals and ten foul shots for his total while Chestnut hit six from the field and six from the foul line.

MIKE Shaw was also a twin figure scorer for the Wildcats. His ten points came on a pair of field goals and six at the charity stripe.

The leading scorer for Logan Elm was senior Dale Jenne, who canned six field goals and four charity tosses. Royce Woolever, the 6-8 center for the Braves was held to 11 points on five field goals and one foul shot.

The difference in the game came at the foul line. Logan Elm, given 30 chances at the free throw line, made only 11.

Laurelville cagers, on the other hand, stepped to the line 43 times and sank 27 of their chances.

The leading rebounder for the winners was Shaw with 13. Bowers and Jeff Whitcraft pulled down nine each.

Whitcraft was credited with an outstanding floor game by his coach, Clyde Crewey. In addition to his nine rebounds and four points, he made seven recoveries and assists in the game.

LAURELVILLE pressed for the first half, building an 18-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and hanging on to the lead, 26-22, at halftime.

In the third period, the Wildcats widened their margin to 46-35, and at one time in the final canto led by 20 points.

Crewey cleared his bench in the closing minutes of lay. Bob Bowers fouled out in the third period for the winners, but his backup man, Gerald Disbennett came in to do a good job in holding Woolever according to Crewey.

It marks the second time this year the Wildcats have defeated the Braves, the first year since the two schools began their basketball series that Laurelville has won.

"We were real happy to win this one," Crewey said. "Our boys hustled real well."

Tonight the Wildcats host Southeastern of Ross County, loser of only one game this year.

The Braves travel to Zana Trace for a rugged road battle.

Dallas Tops Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pittsburgh's 15-game American Basketball Association winning streak was doomed almost as soon as the Dallas Chaparrals located their uniforms.

After a 90-minute delay because of the late arrival of the outfits, the Chaparrals defeated the Pipers 103-97 Friday night, ending a winning string that began Nov. 28.

With Player-Coach Cliff Hagan pumping in 19 first-half points, Dallas pulled into a 19-point lead. Connie Hawkins, who scored all of his game-high 32 points in the second half, led a late Pittsburgh surge but it was not enough.

In other ABA action Friday night, Houston topped New Jersey 107-104, Anaheim edged Indiana 124-121 and Oakland nipped New Orleans 128-123.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has asked the Israeli government to pay $3.3 million to compensate the families of 3 Navy men killed June 8 when Israeli planes and torpedo boats attacked and severely damaged an American naval vessel in the Mediterranean.
Israeli jets made six strafing runs over the U.S.S. Liberty, followed 20 minutes later by three torpedo boats that fired at least two torpedoes.
Soon after the attack Israel expressed regret, declared the incident a mistake and said it was ready to pay reparations.
State Department officials said the money is to compensate for loss of support and "emotional anguish." They said they are proceeding with work on other claims including damage to the ship and the cost of medical treatment of the injured.
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has been accused of rigging tests of the M16 rifle to justify decisions making it the weapon used by all fighting men in Vietnam.
Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., in an 800-word telegram to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara termed worthless rifle tests to begin Jan. 10 in Panama in response to a House subcommittee request. He said tests are to be conducted by the Institute for Defense Analysis and the Marine Corps—agencies which he said have already prejudged the M16 as reliable.

Hughes Talks To Laxalt In Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Industrialist Howard Hughes, Nevada's richest casino owner, conferred this week for the first time in many years with a public official—Gov. Paul Laxalt—it was learned Friday.
Laxalt said the 45-minute talk, by telephone, took place Wednesday night. The governor did not divulge their conversation, saying only that it covered "both Nevada and national affairs."
Hughes has been the subject of speculation since he came to Nevada about a year ago. He has purchased, among other things, four major Las Vegas hotels in an investment program said to involve more than $100 million.
An aide to the multimillionaire, who has not been seen in public in nearly 20 years, said the conversation with Laxalt was Hughes' first direct communication with a public official "in many, many years."

Redistricting Plans Opposed By Shoemaker

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker announced today he would oppose the Congressional redistricting plans which have been proposed for consideration by the 107th General Assembly.
"Taking part of the fifth Congressional District, which Congressman William Harsha represents in order to accommodate Franklin County's representatives is not a realistic way to redraw the congressional map in this state," Shoemaker states.
Plans proposed by both the Rhodes administration and Franklin County's congressmen Devine and Wylie seek to take Pickaway County out of Congressman Harsha's district and include it, as part of a district which will encompass a number of Franklin County townships and Columbus city wards. The plan submitted by Governor James A. Rhodes would redraw the 12th Congressional District to contain Pickaway and Madison counties and Franklin County townships of Truro, Whitehall, Bexley, Franklin, Prairie, Brown, Pleasant, Jackson, Hamilton, Madison, Norwich and Columbus City wards of one through five, seven, nine, 10, 11, 27, 28, 29, 31, and 32.
Shoemaker, representing Pickaway and Ross counties in the state House of Representatives, said he opposes any plan which would take the people of Pickaway County out of the sixth district and include them with the urban, metropolitan areas of Franklin County.
Historically and traditionally, according to Representative Shoemaker, Pickaway County has been associated with the rural counties of Adams, Brown, Clermont, Ross, and others in southern Ohio. Both socially and politically the people of Pickaway County have long been identified with the interests of the rural areas.
Redrawing congressional districts to include Pickaway County in the twelfth district would mean, in effect, that seven-eighths of the new district would represent urban interests. "This would deny the citizens of Pickaway County from ever being able to elect a congressman," stated Representative Shoemaker.
"I should hope that the final plan is adopted by the Ohio General Assembly, is one that keeps Congressman William Harsha's district intact and one that insures the citizens of Pickaway County the protection and preservation of their own interests," stated Shoemaker.

Students To Spend Easter In Vietnam

MUSCATINE, Iowa (AP) — The Muscatine Community College Student Council has adopted a resolution favoring a plan to send students to South Vietnam during Easter holidays.
Tom Cook, a council spokesman, said the students would make the trip not as an expression of support for the war but as one of support for U.S. military men fighting in it. He said the council will investigate ways of raising money to finance the trip.

Set Esherick Sentence Monday

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A 16-year-old former high school sophomore is scheduled to be sentenced Monday to death in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary for killing his father with a bayonet.
Fred M. Esherick Jr. was denied a new trial Friday by Lake County Common Pleas Judge John F. Clair Jr., who set sentencing for 10 a.m. Monday.
The youth's lawyer, John S. Nelson, said he would ask for a stay of execution to file another appeal in the 7th Ohio District Court of Appeals in Youngstown.

Militant Negro Leader Rejects $100,000 Grant

DETROIT (AP) — A proposed $100,000 Ford Foundation grant has been rejected by a militant Negro leader with a warning that Detroit may face another devastating riot in the summer.
The money was turned down by the Rev. Albert Cleage, a Black Power advocate who heads the Federation for Self-Determination, a group established to help rebuild Detroit's Negro community.
Cleage told newsmen Friday that the offer of $100,000 in matching funds had too many strings attached. The offer was made through the New Detroit Committee, a blue ribbon group appointed by Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh to coordinate rehabilitation efforts following last summer's costly riot.
The riot, worst in modern American history, resulted in 43

Gold Smuggling Ring Broken

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Japanese police and customs officials here have broken up post-war Japan's biggest gold smuggling ring and arrested 15 persons, police said today.
The ring consisted of four groups, police said, and had smuggled into Japan three tons of gold worth $6,944,444 since early 1966.
Three tons of gold, police quoted customs authorities as saying, is equivalent to about one-sixth of the gold in official circulation in Japan during 1966.

Find Scattered Opposition On Drunken Driving Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scattered opposition from the public -- and some from police -- is cropping up against Ohio's new drunk driving law.
A number of other law enforcement officers indicate approval of the law.
Effective last Monday, the law requires motorists stopped on suspicion of drunk driving to submit to a chemical analysis for alcohol. Refusal brings automatic suspension of driver's licenses for six months.
Police Lt. George Maiden at Lorain said some provisions of the law are vague. "Until we are able to clarify the interpretation of the law," he said, "we will not change our present methods."
Elyria Police Chief Maurice Flood said he is reluctant to put the statute into full effect until he can confer with law officials to determine how far his men may go in enforcing it before testers are licensed.
Capt. Michael Denicola of the Lorain County sheriff's department said the new test is "just another piece of evidence in a DWI case."
"We'll have to enforce it as it's written and ask the driver to take the test," Denicola said. "If he refuses, we'll have

Refuses Job As Constable

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP) — William Gibeon, certified as constable of this northeastern Pennsylvania community, says he is honored but won't be able to take office.
Gibeon is busy with his classes in the second grade. He is seven years old.
The youngster received a write-in vote and an absentee vote. There were no candidates on the ballot for the post, a nominal one which carries no salary.
The boy's election was certified this week by a judge and a court clerk. The clerk said the certification is only a formality because he fails—by 14 years—to meet the age requirement.

4-Lane Bridge For Gallipolis?

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) —It will cost between $4 million and $10 million to build a new bridge over the Ohio River at Point Pleasant, Gov. Hulett C. Smith has announced. It would replace Silver Bridge that collapsed Dec. 15.
Smith said at a news conference Friday the cost estimates range from $4 million to $6 million for a two-lane bridge and $8 million to $10 million for a four-lane bridge.
Both state and federal highway officials have said a four-lane bridge will be necessary to carry modern traffic loads.

In announcing that funds were available, Joseph L. Hudson Jr., chairman of the New Detroit Committee, said that to get the money the two groups would have to agree to communicate with each other, pledge not to use the money for political purposes and submit to auditing procedures on how the money was spent.

The New Detroit Committee can keep its strings-attached money," Cleage said.

Cleage said that two militant members of the New Detroit Committee were resigning and the federation was severing all relations with the committee.

Hudson said he hoped to meet with Cleage to discuss the situation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has been accused of rigging tests of the M16 rifle to justify decisions making it the weapon used by all fighting men in Vietnam.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., in an 800-word telegram to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara termed worthless rifle tests to begin Jan. 10 in Panama in response to a House subcommittee request. He said tests are to be conducted by the Institute for Defense Analysis and the Marine Corps—agencies which he said have already prejudged the M16 as reliable.

Gold Smuggling Ring Broken

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Japanese police and customs officials here have broken up post-war Japan's biggest gold smuggling ring and arrested 15 persons, police said today.

The ring consisted of four groups, police said, and had smuggled into Japan three tons of gold worth $6,944,444 since early 1966.

Three tons of gold, police quoted customs authorities as saying, is equivalent to about one-sixth of the gold in official circulation in Japan during 1966.

MUSCATINE, Iowa (AP) — The Muscatine Community College Student Council has adopted a resolution favoring a plan to send students to South Vietnam during Easter holidays.

Tom Cook, a council spokesman, said the students would make the trip not as an expression of support for the war but as one of support for U.S. military men fighting in it. He said the council will investigate ways of raising money to finance the trip.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has asked the Israeli government to pay $3.3 million to compensate the families of 3 Navy men killed June 8 when Israeli planes and torpedo boats attacked and severely damaged an American naval vessel in the Mediterranean.

Israeli jets made six strafing runs over the U.S.S. Liberty, followed 20 minutes later by three torpedo boats that fired at least two torpedoes.

Soon after the attack Israel expressed regret, declared the incident a mistake and said it was ready to pay reparations.

State Department officials said the money is to compensate for loss of support and "emotional anguish." They said they are proceeding with work on other claims including damage to the ship and the cost of medical treatment of the injured.

Redistricting Plans Opposed By Shoemaker

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker announced today he would oppose the Congressional redistricting plans which have been proposed for consideration by the 107th General Assembly.

"Taking part of the fifth Congressional District, which Congressman William Harsha represents in order to accommodate Franklin County's representatives is not a realistic way to redraw the congressional map in this state," Shoemaker states.

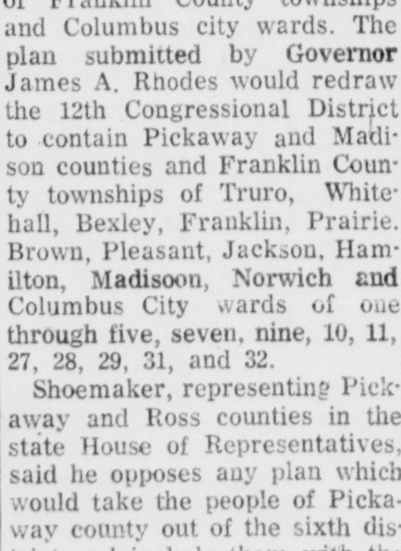

Plans proposed by both the Rhodes administration and Franklin County congressmen Devine and Wylie seek to take Pickaway County out of Congressman Harsha's district and include it as part of a district which will encompass a number of Franklin County townships and Columbus city wards. The plan submitted by Governor James A. Rhodes would redraw the 12th Congressional District to contain Pickaway and Madison counties and Franklin County townships of Truro, Whitehall, Bexley, Franklin, Prairie, Brown, Pleasant, Jackson, Hamilton, Madison, Norwich and Columbus City wards of one through five, seven, nine, 10, 11, 27, 28, 29, 31, and 32.

Shoemaker, representing Pickaway and Ross counties in the state House of Representatives, said he opposes any plan which would take the people of Pickaway county out of the sixth district and include them with the urban, metropolitan areas of Franklin county.

Historically and traditionally, according to Representative Shoemaker, Pickaway county has been associated with the rural counties of Adams, Brown, Clermont, Ross, and others in southern Ohio. Both socially and politically the people of Pickaway county have long been identified with the interests of the rural areas.

Redrawing congressional districts to include Pickaway County in the twelfth district would mean, in effect, that seven-eighths of the new district would represent urban interests. "This would deny the citizens of Pickaway county from ever being able to elect a congressman," stated Representative Shoemaker.

"I should hope that the final plan is adopted by the Ohio General Assembly, is one that keeps Congressman William Harsha's district intact and one that insures the citizens of Pickaway county the protection and preservation of their own interests," stated Shoemaker.

Hughes Talks To Laxalt In Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Industrialist Howard Hughes, Nevada's richest casino owner, conferred this week for the first time in many years with a public official—Gov. Paul Laxalt—it was learned Friday.

Laxalt said the 45-minute talk, by telephone, took place Wednesday night. The governor did not divulge their conversation, saying only that it covered "both Nevada and national affairs."

Hughes has been the subject of speculation since he came to Nevada about a year ago. He has purchased, among other things, four major Las Vegas hotels in an investment program said to involve more than $100 million.

An aide to the multimillionaire, who has not been seen in public in nearly 20 years, said the conversation with Laxalt was Hughes' first direct communication with a public official "in many, many years."

Find Scattered Opposition On Drunken Driving Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scattered opposition from the public — and some from police — is cropping up against Ohio's new drunk driving law.

A number of other law enforcement officers indicate approval of the law.

Effective last Monday, the law requires motorists stopped on suspicion of drunk driving to submit to a chemical analysis for alcohol. Refusal brings automatic suspension of driver's licenses for six months.

Police Lt. George Maiden at Lorain said some provisions of the law are vague. "Until we are able to clarify the interpretation of the law," he said, "we will not change our present methods."

Elyria Police Chief Maurice Flood said he is reluctant to put the statute into full effect until he can confer with law officials to determine how far his men may go in enforcing it before testers are licensed.

Capt. Michael Denicola of the Lorain County sheriff's department said the new test is "just another piece of evidence in a DWI case."

"We'll have to enforce it as it's written and ask the driver to take the test," Denicola said. "If he refuses, we'll have to send the information to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Any further action is up to them."

At Toledo, Deputy Chief Howard Tripp said police will enforce the law. He said officers have no right to do otherwise since the legality of the law is a matter for the courts to settle.

Police Chief John Long of Marion said he has no reservations about the law.

Refuses Job As Constable

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP) — William Gibney, certified as constable of this northeastern Pennsylvania community, says he is honored but won't be able to take office.

Gibney is busy with his classes in the second grade. He is seven years old.

The youngster received a write-in vote and an absentee vote. There were no candidates on the ballot for the post, a nominal one which carries no salary.

The boy's election was certified this week by a judge and a court clerk. The clerk said the certification is only a formality because he fails—by 14 years—to meet the age requirement.
